Leaders Pay Final Tribute to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The grand leaders of the world came together today to pay a splendid, ceremonial final tribute to Dwight David Eisenhower.

Ordinary Americans shuffled patiently in thousands through a long, blustery spring night to say a simpler goodbye.

Presidents and prime ministers, chancellors and kings, journeyed across the planet for the final day of the elaborate state funeral honoring the 34th president of the United States and one of its fabled warriors.

France's De Gaulle was here, and the Shah of Iran, Constantine of Greece, King Baudouin of Belgium, West Germany's Chancellor Kurt Kiesinger and dozens more.

They rested through the night for the formal, invitation-only funeral service in the stately National Cathedral this afternoon.

Quietly, Unemotionally
Thousands of others did not rest. Quietly, unemotionally, they trudged across the grounds of the U.S. Capitol, up the majestic steps where Eisenhower er twice took the oath of office, and into the soaring, hushed Rotunda.

They were mostly the white, middle-class, taxpaying, respectable American citizens who twice made him their leader.

They blinked in the harsh lights of television as they came in from the cold to the place where their Ike lay in state.

Inside, their ranks parted to file by on either side of the plain GI coffin where it lay on its bier, draped in the Stars and Stripes of the country he had fought for in war and led in peace.

There, President Nixon had said in eulogy earlier, lay "that rarest of men, an authentic hero."

There lay a man whose last words to his wife were just the ones these people who came through the night might have hoped he would say:

"I've always loved my wife. I've always loved my children. I've always loved my grandchildren. And I have always loved my country."

A small, bent shadow, Mamie Dowd Eisenhower, 72, fought back tears and grasped the arm of her sturdy son, John, as her husband's vice president and eventual successor quietly addressed the solemn gathering of dignitaries for 16 minutes before the Rotunda was opened to the public.

It was Nixon who disclosed to the world the last words Eisenhower had spoken to his wife just before his death Friday afternoon.

Dwight Eisenhower, said Nixon, was "one of the giants of our time... probably more loved by more people in other parts of the world than any president America ever had."

Bells tolled across the capital, quietly celebrating Palm Sunday under spitting, cheerless skies, as the Eisenhower family and dignitaries cleared the Rotunda to make way for the public.

The body, in its $80 steel coffin—the kind the Army uses to bury all its soldiers—had been borne majestically to the Capitol on the traditional, creaking artillery caisson drawn by horses.

In black trappings, riderless, cavalry boots reversed in the stirrups, a black horse named Raven pranced nervously behind the rumbling caisson.

Military leaders were borne by limousines. Mrs. Eisenhower's car followed the slowly drawn caisson. The President and Mrs. Nixon followed in his heavily armored limousine, surrounded by watchful Secret Service agents at every slowdown.

Despite a delay in transfer, a few snowflakes fell briefly. It rained. It clouded over. The sun came out, was shrouded again.

Throughout the long day, Mamie Eisenhower was calm, composed to the watching world. On two occasions in the Rotunda, it appeared that she was stifling tears.

Mamie Calm, Composed

Her son never left her side. His arm was always there for her to clasp with a black-gloved hand. He spoke briefly with the President when the ceremony had ended.

The widow and son then hastened to the seclusion of a hotel.

Across the nation, in Palm Sunday services, the eulogy of President Nixon found echoes in prayer and sermon.

Today, a national day of mourning by presidential proclamation, the body of the five star general lies in the Rotunda until late afternoon, before being carried back to the cathedral by hearse for the funeral itself.

Through the night a train will carry Eisenhower on his last journey west—to his boyhood home in Abilene, Kan.

The train is due into Abilene at midnight Tuesday.

The next morning, Eisenhower will be buried under the floor of the chapel of the Eisenhower Library, near the body of his son, Dowd, who died in childhood.

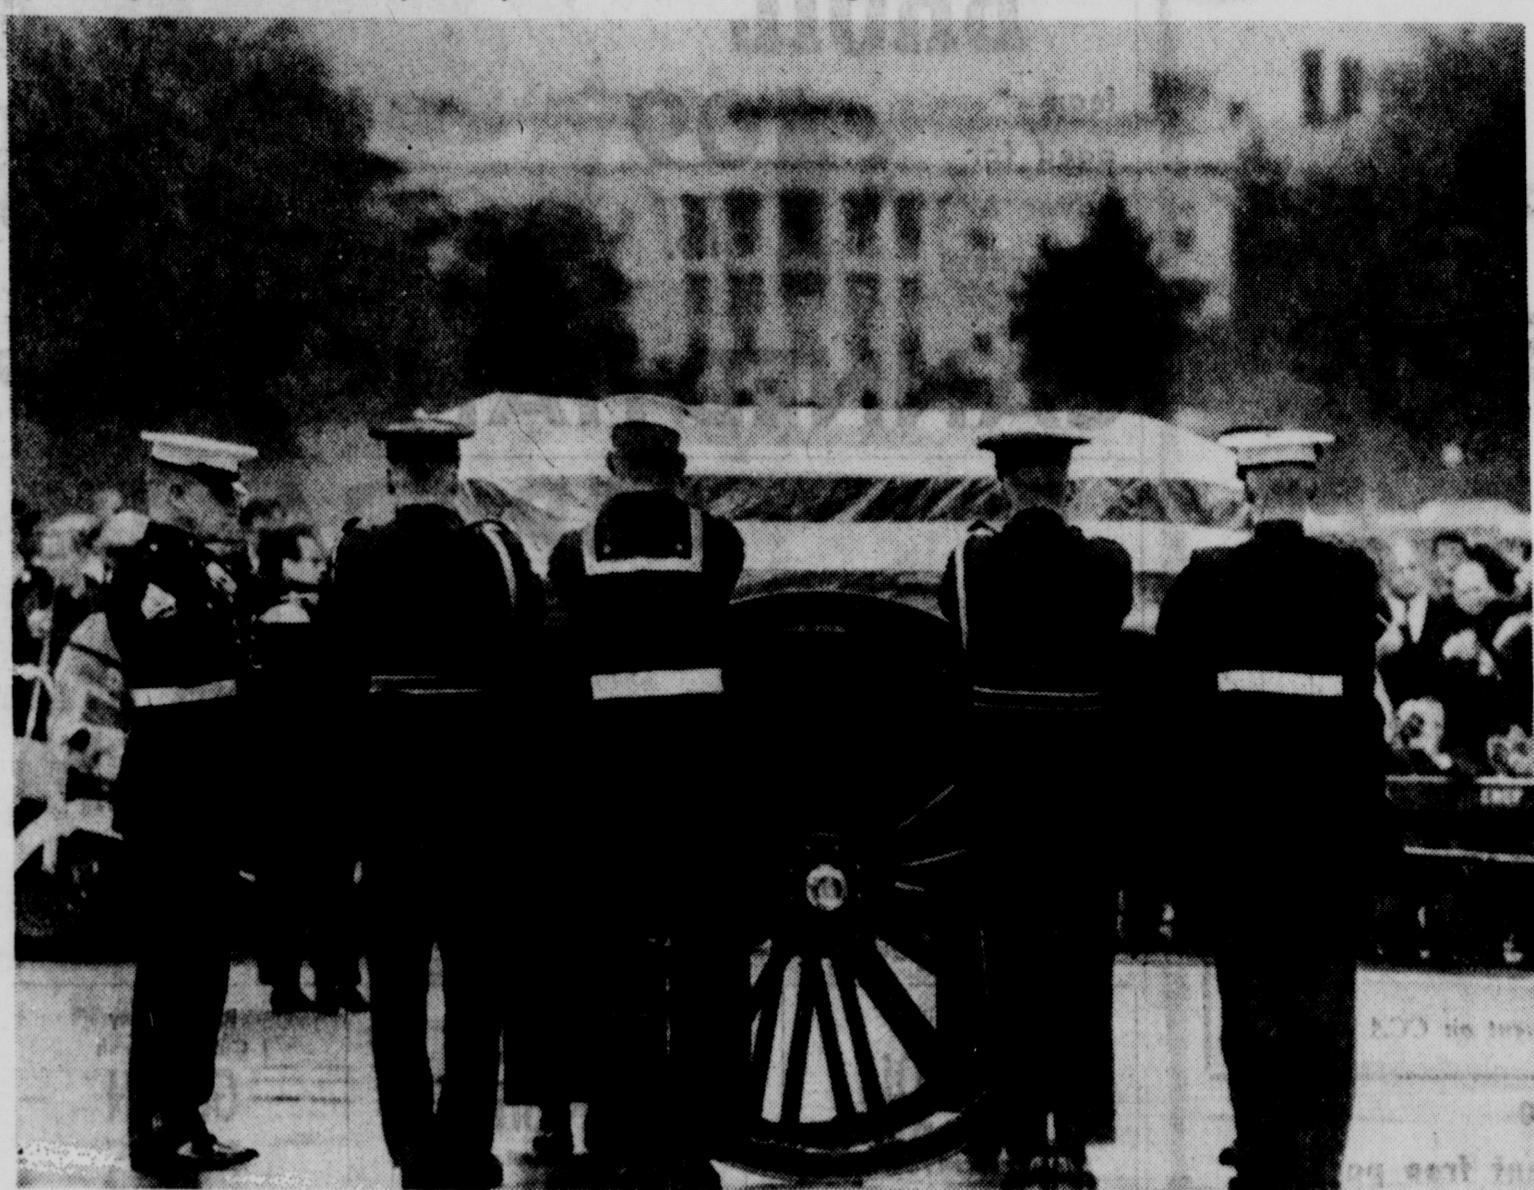

French President Charles de Gaulle, Eisenhower's comrade in arms in World War II, when the United States returned France from Nazi control, arrived in Washington as Nixon was speaking Sunday.

He changed from civilian clothes to his general's uniform and went to the Rotunda. The crowds were halted at the door as the elderly French leader moved toward the bier, saluted, stood quietly, saluted again, and departed.

King Constantine of Greece and President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia also came to the Rotunda.

Soldiers, Tanks Overrun Michelin Plantation Base

By JACK WALSH

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. soldiers aboard tanks and bullet-spraying armored vehicles smashed into a North Vietnamese base and overrun it in rubber plantation country northwest of Saigon, military spokesmen said today.

Charging through a fusillade of Communist machinegun fire and antitank rockets, the American troops and dive-bombers supporting them killed 38 North Vietnamese in the Michelin Plantation battle 45 miles from downtown Saigon.

It brought to 444 the number of Communists killed in the past two weeks of an allied drive to root them out of camps threatening Saigon. Eight Americans died and 11 were wounded in the fighting, communiques said.

The report climaxed a week-end in which the reds shelled Saigon and fired on a U.S. plane from the border demilitarized zone (DMZ)—two violations of the so-called understanding that stopped the bombing of North Vietnam entirely last Nov. 1.

Guerrilla gunners fired three rockets at the city from rice paddies to the south Sunday night, two of them landing in a rice paddy and the third in the Saigon River. No one was hurt. The barrage into Saigon was one of 20 overnight salvos into cities and military camps up and down South Vietnam, U.S. headquarters said.

In one, North Vietnamese troops lobbed 150 mortar shells into a U.S. outpost in the Central Highlands and then charged into the barbed wire throwing hand grenades. Six Americans were killed and 37 wounded.

The announcement said the outpost defenders threw off the attack with machineguns and supporting artillery strikes in two hours and counted 25 North Vietnamese bodies later on the battlefield 245 miles northeast of Saigon.

One year ago today, former President Lyndon B. Johnson declared a partial halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. Later, last Nov. 1, he completely stopped the bombing with the understanding the Communists would spare major South Vietnamese cities from attack and stay out of the DMZ.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have done neither. The shelling of Saigon Sunday was the seventh in their now 37-day-old nationwide offensive.

Far to the north, guerrilla gunners inside the border DMZ opened up on a U.S. spotter plane circling overhead. Unscathed the spotter pilot called in artillery strikes on his assailants and "silenced" them, the U.S. announcement said.

Saigon on Talks: Door Still Open

PARIS (UPI)—South Vietnamese negotiators said today they were still ready to open secret talks with the Viet Cong to try to end the Vietnam War despite outspoken Communist denunciation of such an offer last week.

An allied source said the South Vietnamese delegation did not consider the denunciation a "rejection." A Viet Cong negotiator had assailed the proposal as a "crafty trick."

French diplomats saw the new Saigon declaration of readiness to enter secret talks as "a sort of renewal" of President Nguyen Van Thieu's offer for such talks. Thieu had said the possibility of the talks was "a light at the end of the tunnel."

Some South Vietnamese officials are fearful that Saigon guerrilla talks would lead to a coalition government including the Viet Cong.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said Sunday he would "certainly accept" a coalition government in Saigon "if it was elected in a free election."

Laird's remarks were in a copyright interview in the magazine U.S. News and World Report.

South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said Sunday he would fly to Paris after attending the funeral of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, giving hopes secret talks might begin soon. He has been in Saigon the past month. Ky has been coordinator of Saigon's delegation in Paris.

Diplomatic observers said they saw little prospect for progress in the 11th negotiating session Thursday at the Hotel Majestic. They said the absence of Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U.S. negotiator, made it unlikely.

Lodge was in Washington for the funeral of Eisenhower. U.S. delegation sources said Lodge would also confer with President Nixon and other high administration officials while in Washington.

Lodge said Sunday in Washington that "some progress has been made" in the Paris talks in the year since former President Lyndon B. Johnson ordered a partial halt in the bombing of North Vietnam.

He said a military victory was impossible for either side. "I believe that some progress has been made in the last 12 months although it is slow," Lodge said.

Johnson announced a year ago Sunday a halt in bombing below the 19th parallel. The Paris talks opened May 13.

Man Is Arrested Following Report of Factory Break-In

KINGSTON A 29-year-old man was in custody here today under charges of third degree burglary and resisting arrest as the aftermath of a police investigation of a reported break-in at the Gant Manufacturing Co. factory at 97 Cornell Street.

Leroy E. Green of 100 Gage Street, was accused of attempting to steal eight cartons containing 18 men's shirts of assorted colors from the plant where he was employed.

Police received a telephone call from a resident at 1:30 p. m. Saturday informing them that someone had entered the Cornell Street building. Patrolmen Junious Harris and Douglas Longto investigated. They found the factory had been entered by forcing a rear window.

Authorities said the patrolmen found Green inside near the back door. They ordered the man to place his hands over his head, but instead Green allegedly started to swing his clenched fists and kick the officers. During the scuffle, Harris sustained bruises of the hands. The accused man was subdued by the officers and taken to police headquarters where he was booked and processed. He was committed to the county jail pending an arraignment in City Court.

According to police, a warrant has been filed by State Parole authorities charging Green with a violation.

Mayor Lindsay Leads the Mourners

MILLBROOK New York's Mayor John V. Lindsay was among the 700 mourners who filed through the rain into the Lyall Memorial Church, Millbrook, for the funeral of Julia Mackenzie Fish Jr., wife of Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

Many area officials and public leaders, including Mayor Raymond W. Garragahn and County Legislator Chairman Peter J. Savago came to pay tribute to the 41-year-old mother of four who was killed in an automobile accident near her home Wednesday night.

It was to the Fish home on Welwyn Road that Mayor Lindsay and Deputy Mayor Robert Sweet first went to await the funeral. Lindsay and his small party had arrived in Millbrook by helicopter, landing on the grounds of the local central school.

The eldest Fish son, Hamilton Fish III, 17, went on to the church alone to make last minute arrangements. The congressman followed with his three other children, Julia Alexandra, 15; Nicholas, 11 and Peter, 10.

Congressman Fish's father, and other members of the family as well as Mayor Lindsay followed into the church which was filled to overflowing. The procession was led by the Rev. Malcolm Sawtelle, rector of Grace Episcopal Church of which Mrs. Fish was a member. The purple-cloaked casket with two wide amber ribbons,

Assessment Reflects Albany School Views

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's higher sales tax and its new $6.4-billion budget go into effect Tuesday, and the attack on the policy they represent already is underway.

The record spending plan, which seeks to slow the upward spiral of education and welfare aid, was adopted by the Republican-ruled legislature late Saturday over vocal but futile Democratic protests.

After completing their work, the lawmakers recessed for two weeks.

Democrats protested that the budget shortchanges New Yorkers on vital human needs and that the sales - tax increase — raising the state's levy from two to three per cent — hits hardest at the poor.

They served notice by their "no" votes that they intend to make an election-time issue of the measures.

An old Democratic ally, State AFL-CIO President Raymond R. Corbett, launched a more immediate assault, however.

Corbett complained Sunday that the budget had been balanced by "soaking the wage-earner," while favoring high-income taxpayers and industry, and cutting allowances for the impoverished and the sick.

"Use of these heartless, inhuman devices, victimizing the weak while favoring the strong, is disgraceful, meriting harshest condemnation."

"Those who have followed this philosophy clearly have abused the powers granted them and subverted the purpose of government. They should have no place in the political life of the Empire State of New York."

Corbett's attack reflected the protests voiced repeatedly by Democrats during the grueling Saturday session that culminated in approval of a partially revamped version of the budget Rockefeller had presented.

Higher Sales Tax on Tuesday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New York State's higher sales tax and its new $6.4-billion budget go into effect Tuesday, and the attack on the policy they represent already is underway.

Corbett's attack reflected the protests voiced repeatedly by Democrats during the grueling Saturday session that culminated in approval of a partially revamped version of the budget Rockefeller had presented.

The Senate finished its fiscal business at 11 p.m. and the Assembly at 11:55, then recessed until April 15 in observance of the approaching Easter - Passover holiday period.

Upon returning to action, the legislature will begin a drive for final adjournment of the 1969 session by April 25.

Among the controversial issues awaiting its attention are broadening of the state's strict abortion law and decentralization of the administration of New York City's sprawling public school system, to give parents more say in its operations.

The battle over the budget was among the most intense of recent years, as Republicans defended their decisions to slow the constant growth of state spending.

As adopted, the budget provides for spending of just under $6.4 billion in the fiscal year beginning Tuesday, compared with an outlay of $5.51 billion in the year now concluding.

Republicans argued that, while the increase is a substantial one, it would be much higher if they had yielded to the annual demands for enrichment of the school - aid formula and if they not restricted the scope of the welfare and Medicaid programs.

Bomb Halt---Little Loss Militarily

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon officers say the United States has suffered little militarily from the prohibition against bombing North Vietnam, begun in limited fashion one year ago today.

This attitude would seem to be an admission that the air campaign against the North, launched in February 1965, was not as vital as the Pentagon made it out to be.

But, military men say, the North Vietnamese have gained operating flexibility and are no longer paying as high a price to infiltrate men and supplies southward.

At the same time, however, Hanoi has not been able, or has not chosen, to build up a much larger force in South Vietnam. Its troop level today is about what it was when the bombs were falling—around 10.

Former President Johnson restricted U.S. bombing of North Vietnam last March 31 to the narrow panhandle beneath the 20th parallel to encourage Hanoi to enter peace negotiations. Last Nov. 1, with talks imminent, he made the prohibition complete.

There was some concern the bombing halt would bring a dangerous North Vietnamese threat to U.S. Marines stationed below the demilitarized zone separating the two countries. The United States warned Hanoi in advance to respect the supposedly mutual nature of the DMZ.

Officers say Hanoi still plays fast and loose with the DMZ but not to the extent that U.S. forces have been placed in serious jeopardy.

U.S. intelligence estimates 1,500 to 3,000 North Vietnamese operate continuously in the 12-mile zone but few are combat types.

Most are patrols or are in construction units sent in to repair fortifications in North Vietnam's six-mile portion of the DMZ. Small armed units do slip through occasionally to raid Marine outposts.

Four divisions, or around 40,000 men, which were withdrawn to North Vietnam last year remain scattered above the DMZ and pose a potential threat.

The United States still "attacks" North Vietnamese territory on occasion. There have been dozens of exchanges of fire between U.S. Marines in the south and North Vietnamese units in the DMZ. The U.S. military has recorded nearly 1,100 instances of enemy presence inside the zone.

American reconnaissance planes also fly with armed escorts over the North to maintain close surveillance over enemy troop movements—something President Johnson informed Hanoi would be done. When fired upon, these reconnaissance patrols are authorized to go after the anti-aircraft batteries.

With the bombing halt has come an intensified air campaign against North Vietnamese units in Laos, the supposedly neutral country Hanoi has used for years as a pathway to South Vietnam.

Officially, the United States will not acknowledge what is going on. But Air Force sources say the full weight of American airpower once directed against North Vietnam has now been diverted to Laos, especially the jungle roads and highways referred to as the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

A source estimates the average number of U.S. missions over Laos at 3,600 per month—or 10,000 to 15,000 sorties.

Soviets Assails Mao On His Failures

MOSCOW (UPI)—Spurned in its proposal to resume negotiations with Communist China on disputed border areas, the Soviet Union today assailed Mao Tse-tung for failing to meet socialist responsibility.

The Moscow newspaper Soviet Russia said "Mao and his group... are in fact guided by bourgeois and anti-Marxist ideology of nationalism and great power chauvinism."

It added that Mao's anti-Soviet policy reflected his "failure to meet the complicated difficult tasks of building socialism."

Sunday the Chinese denounced the Soviet proposal to resume negotiations on the disputed Sino-Soviet frontier as slanderous.

Although Peking has not officially replied to the 4,500 word Soviet statement delivered to the Chinese embassy here Saturday, an official embassy spokesman said:

"The note is a slander from the beginning to the end. It runs contrary to the facts and it confounds the right and wrong."

But he added that the document "is being studied."

The Soviets offered to negotiate demarcation of the troubled Sino-Soviet border but firmly rejected all Chinese territorial revision claims.

Moscow's bid to reopen consultations with the Chinese, which started in Peking in February of 1964 but broke down after several months, was believed to affect adjustments of minor frontier positions. There have been several recent border clashes between Soviets and Chinese at the Siberian frontier on the Ussuri River by Damansky Island. The most violent, which claimed heavy casualties on both sides, occurred on March 2, 14 and 15.

Abilene Remembers Ike; He'll Be Among Friends

ABILENE, Kan. (UPI)—The world passed by just beyond the north end of town. There, on Interstate Highway 70 the cars and trucks hurry along with an urgent buzz, bound for far places like Denver and Topeka and Kansas City.

Here, inside a secure wrapping of surrounding slopes of brown Kansas earth a new green patches of winter wheat, lies everybody's hometown.

When the man from Abilene, Dwight D. Eisenhower, comes finally home Tuesday night, he will be among friends as though he never left.

From the Wagon Wheel Cafe down by the freight depot, where the funeral train will reach journey's end, to the cemetery on the hill, where his father Davis and his mother Ida are buried, the town like roamed as a boy is still uniquely his.

"They feel close to Ike," one man said of the people here. "He was always so proud to be from Abilene."

"It's a feeling that he really meant it," said Mayor Delton B. Hadel. "when he used to come back and say it was being home again. That tremendous trust he had in us and the feeling he had for people here transmitted itself so that everybody in town feels like they've met him informally."

"This rubs off on your heart. This trust gets to people—I don't care how you cut it. What impressed me about the man was that he felt a freedom here he felt no place else."

"I got the shock of my life one morning when he was President and I was going to work about 8 o'clock and there he was all alone walking down by the corner of Cedar and Second Street just looking at things."

Zeke Storer came out from

Sunday services at the First "There was a spot inside the old Callahan's confectionery, the place is gone now, that we used to call 'Ike's corner.' In his early military days when he would return home, that's where he'd sit and visit with Callahan and Paul Royer and his other cronies."

You drive into this town of 8,000 between old-fashioned white frame houses with big yards. They line the maindrag, Buckeye Avenue before it becomes the business section. In front of one of these houses, a woman on her way to church remembered Ike's mother:

"When the news first came during the war that he was getting the five-star general rank, my aunt Emma asked Mrs. Eisenhower what she thought about that. She replied: 'Oh, it's all right—just so long as he's good to the boys.' That's how she was."

GOING HOME—The Eisenhower funeral cortege is shown approaching the U. S. Capitol Sunday after being taken from the Washington National Cathedral. The body lay in state at the Rotunda where thousands paid their respects to the former General of the Armies and President of the United States. Today, the body was taken to Abilene, Kan., for burial in Eisenhower's home town. (UPI Telephoto)

Eisenhower's Last Ideas-- Unification of Country

WASHINGTON (UPI)—As President Nixon said in his moving eulogy in the hushed Capitol Rotunda Sunday afternoon, some of Dwight D. Eisenhower's last thoughts were of remedies for the angry division of our time.

In a voice that cracked occasionally with emotion, Nixon said of the man whom he served for eight years as vice president:

"He was genuinely puzzled by frenzy and by hate because he was incapable of it himself. He could never quite understand it in others."

"The last time I saw him (last week at Walter Reed Hospital) that was what he talked about. He was puzzled by the hatred he had seen in our times. And he said the thing the world needs most today is understanding and an ability to see the other person's point of view and not to hate him because he disagrees."

"That was Dwight Eisenhower. I've always loved my grand-children; and I've always loved my country."

Perhaps Nixon reflected the spirit of the thousands who lined majestically broad Constitution Avenue to watch in silence, a few in tears, as a black, horse-drawn caisson carried Eisenhower's body from Washington National Cathedral to lie in state through the night in the cavernous Rotunda.

The Sunday street crowds were anything but large by

Hatfield Waited Turn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., waited in the cold with his wife and four children for more than an hour to pay tribute to Dwight D. Eisenhower at Washington National Cathedral.

Hatfield declined VIP treatment which would have allowed him to bypass the long line of persons waiting to enter the cathedral Sunday.

Hatfield said he recalled his days as an enlisted Navy man officers sometimes took advantage of their rank to go to the head of a line.

Eisenhower standards—the Ike who attracted spectators by the millions during his presidency as he traveled not only his own country, but the globe. Still, the turnout for the departed herogeneral of World War II was impressive. The weather during the long procession ranged from a snow and rain to cold wintry sunlight that pierced the overcast almost on cue as the flag-covered caisson was carried up the Capitol steps.

Perhaps the most distinctive thing about the crowd was the many young people — young couples holding their children aloft for a first-person view of an historic moment; a surprisingly large number of young men and women of student age; girls in mod ponchos, and boys whose long hair Eisenhower found hard to understand.

There were no protest signs, no outcries or displays—just block after block of grave-faced people looking at a sad, yet stirring ritual of farewell to a national hero many of the younger people knew only from their history books.

Mamie Fought To Hold Tears

WASHINGTON (UPI)—She bit her lip, fighting to hold back the tears as the pallbearers carrying her husband's flag-draped casket marched to the center of the Capitol Rotunda.

A few minutes later, as President Nixon eulogized the man she married 52 years ago, Mamie Eisenhower appeared to falter and she reached for her son John's arm.

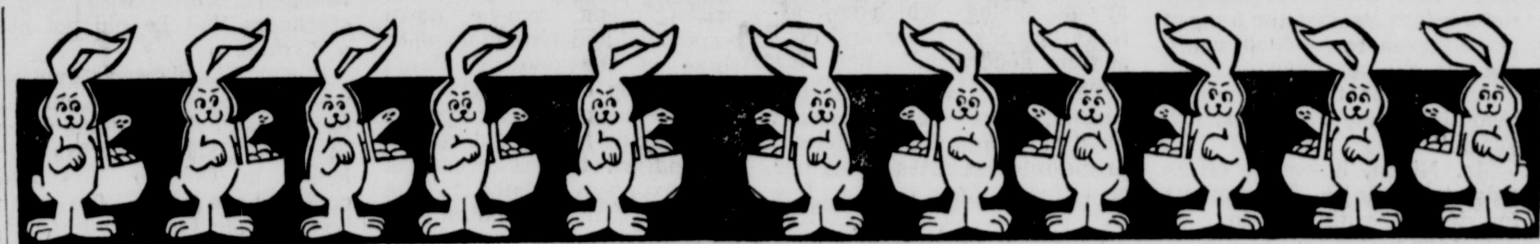

Finally, she wept openly—unable to struggle any longer when Nixon repeated the last words of love Gen. Eisenhower ever spoke:

"I've always loved my wife; I've always loved my children; I've always loved my country."

Hunger in America

Starvation is not part of the American self-image. Yet it is gradually being admitted that Americans are hungry, do starve to death. A team of doctors who made a study in Mississippi for the Southern Regional Council urged the federal government, June 24, 1967, to take "immediate steps" to provide food and medical care for children in shocking condition. The doctors said: "Malnutrition is not quite what we found; the boys and girls we saw were hungry . . . weak, in pain, sick . . . They are suffering from hunger and disease and directly or indirectly they are dying from them—which is exactly what starvation means."

The doctors' report received little more than passing attention. So did a Public Health survey of last Jan. 22, which disclosed an "alarming prevalence" of diseases commonly associated with undernourishment in low-income areas of Texas, Louisiana, New York and Kentucky.

Sen. George McGovern wants free food stamps for all seven million Americans in families earning less than $1,000 a year, and lower stamp costs for the less impoverished. Food stamps currently are sold in relation to the family income. The poorest pay 50 cents each per month. A family with an income of $600 to $1,000 a year is required to pay $18 a month to get $60 worth of stamps.

The National Planning Association will recommend a "variable purchase" food stamp plan under which even the poorest families can obtain food stamps sufficient for a minimum nutritional diet. The NPA Agriculture Committee asserts that "food aid policies should be considered entirely as programs of help for poor people" and not as farm programs.

NPA would take food aid out of the Department of Agriculture. Under the plan, cost of food stamps would rise from zero to $1 on the basis of family income. An adequate diet would be assured down to the lowest poverty levels.

The richest nation in the world, which pays farmers not to raise food, ought to be able to rearrange its policies and distribution methods to do a far better job at feeding the poor in America and abroad as well. No nation can morally afford to subsidize farmers for plowing under crops while millions go hungry.

Guard Your Car

Last year 815,000 motor cars were stolen in the United States. It was 23 per cent worse than the year before, which was 17 per cent worse than the year before that, which was 10 per cent worse than the year before that. So auto theft is mounting.

Prime targets are late model cars, sporty models, high powered models. These cars are magnets for the thieves. It is not possible to stop auto theft completely, but it can be arrested.

Unbelievably, 80 per cent of all stolen cars were left unlocked; and almost half of all stolen cars had the keys left in them. How much easier can you make it for a thief to go off with your car?

A stolen car is 200 times as likely to be in a crash as when the owner is driving it. The thief has nothing to lose but his life, and by that time he doesn't much care about that.

Nine in ten arrests for car thefts are people under 20. One in 12 stolen cars are used in other crimes. Almost half of all get-away cars in bank robberies are stolen.

Last year, 153,000 stolen cars were involved in crashes with a toll of 600 killed and 21,000 injured.

To cut down car theft, do these two simple things: Every time you leave your car, lock it and pocket the key. It will still be there when you come back.

The title of the new quarterly published by the Federally Employed Women (FEW) has a catchy title. The aim of the organization is an end of job discrimination on the basis of sex. It finds that the laws, regulations and customs that constrain women who dare to use their talents fully are often the products of simple and habitual lack of thought as much as prejudice.

Where Are the Restraints Against Wage, Price Rises?

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's message to Congress this week outlining how he intends to deal with inflation is the most significant document that has come from the White House since the inauguration. Undoubtedly it was prepared with the most care by economists and other advisers who are familiar with monetary as well as budgetary problems. But it may be questioned whether the remedies will prove effective.

The President starts out with an analysis of inflation itself with which everybody will agree. He says old and young who are dependent on fixed incomes are hurt, and he notes that they are "largely defenseless against the kind of price increases for food, clothing, medicine, housing and education that have swept over the nation in the last few years."

Mr. Nixon, however, offers only two major instruments for dealing with inflation—a monetary policy that continues to apply restraints and a fiscal policy which means a cutting of the federal budget so that the many years of deficits will be succeeded now by surpluses.

The measures proposed are not likely to be successful unless the cuts in federal expenditures are far more drastic than have been recommended and unless something is done to curb the steady increases in wages and prices.

The President naturally had to ask for a continuation of the 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes, which he speaks of as a one-year extension.

This has provided additional revenues of 9.5 billion dollars and could not possibly have been terminated.

But where are the restraints against rises in wages and prices? Mr. Nixon declares: "Taken together, these actions to reduce spending and maintain revenues will produce the strong budget surplus urgently needed to meet the inflationary threat."

Moreover, by proving government's serious intent to counter the upward spiral of prices and wages, we will encourage the private sector to stop assuming a high rate of inflation in long-range planning.

"Courageous government action will modify the inflationary psychology which now afflicts business, labor and consumers generally."

The 10 per cent income tax surcharge has been in effect for a year, and the increase in prime interest rates to 7½ per cent took place only a few weeks ago. The President argues that the postponement of the scheduled reductions on telephone and passenger-car excise taxes and the enactment of "user charges," such as truck taxes, will maintain revenues of close to one billion dollars. This is hardly enough to halt the inflationary trend.

Much of the damage has been done in the last four years, as prices have risen steadily in order to absorb higher wage costs. The Johnson administration didn't care to ask for a law imposing wage-and-price controls. The Nixon administration makes no mention of it either, though in World War I, World War II and the Korean War these restraints were deemed imperative.

If the Vietnam War comes to an end in the next year and the United States can reduce substantially its military expenditures, this might have some constructive effects on the national economy. But it should be noted that many of the members of Congress who have been loudest in their demands that the Vietnam conflict be stopped have usually mentioned a desire to see the same amount or more money spent inside the United States for various projects of a social-economic nature.

If the war terminates suddenly and there isn't time to make a gradual adjustment, prices might move down somewhat and employment in some of the defense plants would drop off in large numbers. But at present such a contingency is deemed unlikely. Indeed, the chances are that expenses related to the Vietnam War will continue at least through the next fiscal year—July 1, 1969, to June 30, 1970.

The administration is evidently reluctant to control prices and put limits on further wage increases. Yet present-day inflation is a direct result of the failure to impose restraints heretofore. The latest official figures show that the cost of living is still going up.

The President's message to Congress will have to be regarded as an interim measure and hardly will provide a solution to the economic troubles of the country, especially the inflationary pressures.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is a restaurant in my town called Dinty Moore's.

The lean corned beef, the cabbage and the boiled potato are implied in the title. A massive moon of a man named Tom Maren runs the place and sometimes he draws a chair up to our table, sticks the unlighted end of a cigar into his kisser, and starts talking Ireland and Boston.

Boston, of course, is Ireland with shoes on. The brogues are thick. Now Tom and I are friends because he is bigger than I and, in the event of fistfights, all he would have to do is lean my way to win. He speaks of Boston with reverence and he goes all the way back to Cardinal O'Connell and Scollay Square. We jab each other with stories which are no longer quite true, although the distillation of the facts is almost accurate.

We toss in a few colorful phrases, such as waiters in the seafood restaurants on the Gresham in Dublin and drove slowly down the left side of the road to Cork. I saw the deep green of the hills; the low fieldstone walls; the villages with thatched roofs; the blue-coated constables on bicycles; and the young Irishmen, in cheap peaked caps and turtle-neck sweaters, standing in front of pubs with glasses of good stout and bad teeth.

Whatever I saw, I wrote. One day the Dail met in session and some legislator made a motion that Ireland cordially invite Mr. Jim Bishop of the United States not to visit Ireland again. It was carried with cheers, which surprised me because I didn't think they could read.

Ireland is a beautiful country; it's the people who louse it up. The difference between Ireland and Israel is not great. Both countries have fan clubs in alien countries. The people in Israel have not learned to laugh, and the Irish haven't learned how to stop.

My daughter Gayle accompanied me to a hurling match outside Cork. Hurling is a game in which players on both sides carry hockey sticks, not so much to hit the leather spheroid for a goal, but to crack skulls. The game was between Wexford and Cork. I asked a constable if it was a league game. "No," he said, "this is a benefit for a player who landed in the hospital last week." They must play hurling but benefits because, as we chatted, two players were carried off on stretchers.

The Imperial Hotel in Cork may have been comfortable for the Irish, but we froze. A tattered maid with a patch in her apron showed up at night with foot warmers. Gayle thanked the maid, tipped her, and said, "Now do a favor for me. Open the window and let some heat in."

Ireland may be the only country where the population seldom increases. Two centuries ago, they had three million people and the number remains the same. As soon as an Irishman is old enough to know his own mind, he dives off the deep end for Canada, the United States, or Australia.

All of them become policemen, judges, Wall Street brokers, bankers, Senators and industrialists. This, of course, happens only to those who leave . . .

Drew Pearson Says The Eisenhower I Knew

WASHINGTON — I first met Dwight D. Eisenhower almost 37 years ago, when during the summer of 1932, he was assigned as liaison man between the Army General Staff and the D.C. Metropolitan Police regarding the Bonus Army. I was covering the Bonus Army, about 20,000 destitute World War I veterans who had camped in Washington demanding further pay or jobs for their patriotism.

Eisenhower was then a young major attached to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff and his system of keeping informed regarding the Bonus Army was to sit in the District of Columbia press room reading Westerns. There he could learn the news from the press. Also he could keep out of trouble.

In some respects this characterized much of Eisenhower's life. He was sweet, considerate of others, cherished the highest ideals, but very cautious. He wanted to keep out of trouble.

This was probably why he side-stepped the Bay of Pigs invasion when the CIA recommended it in the fall of 1960. He put 1,000 troops in South Vietnam but never got as deeply involved as Vice-President Nixon wanted him to. He appointed some courageous Southern judges who ruled for integration; but he himself kept strictly aloof from that controversy. If he had given the Supreme Court even token support after its historic school desegregation decision in 1954, federal troops probably would not have been called out in Little Rock.

But Ike wanted to stay out of trouble.

Commander of the Greatest Army

Eisenhower was commander of the greatest Army ever assembled by the United States. He was President of the United States at the peak of its power. This instinct for cautiousness influenced his conduct in both important posts.

As commander of the European Theatre, Ike did a good job. He had the benefit of the best combat officer of modern times, Gen. Omar Bradley, plus the common sense of Gen. George Marshall, who on one occasion when Ike lost his head and his heart to a British WAC, rebuked him with such sternness that he did not get a divorce.

It was Eisenhower's caution which caused him to cut off Gen. Bradley's gasoline when he was about to cross the Rhine in October 1944 and could have won the war before Christmas. Instead, Bradley's supplies and manpower were allocated to Field Marshal Montgomery so he could catch up with Bradley and the British could share in the glory of victory.

That caution coupled with Montgomery's ego resulted in the Battle of the Bulge and delayed the war an extra four months, thereby causing the extra loss of lives.

Eisenhower for President

After Eisenhower came back to the United States to a hero's welcome, he became Chief of Staff. I lunched with him on occasion. He was a firm believer in civilian control over the military, worked for better education and other opportunities for his men, favored arms reduction rather than a military buildup.

I was among those who urged him to run for President and touched off a flood of mail by a radio program to that end.

In December 1951, I forwarded 18,000 Christmas cards to Ike in Paris, all urging that he run.

Four months later, April 1952, when he was definitely a candidate, I had an interesting visit with Ike at SHAPE headquarters just outside Paris. He was then steeped in organizing the first NATO army but still naive—as I found out—about politics.

I told him how the Republican State Committee in South Carolina—only two Republicans—had met in a car outside Charleston to elect Taft delegates, how the Republican State Chairman in Louisiana had elected a Taft slate of delegates after permitting only one minute of debate, and that he, Ike, would have the convention stoned away from him if he did not do something.

Ike, sat on the edge of his chair, incredulous. "Do you mean to say things like this happen in the United States?" he said.

I suggested that he could

Rural Southerner Seen Shifting To Softer Segregation Point of View

By BRUCE BLOSSARD

NEA Washington Correspondent

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (NEA)

Southerners, like everybody else, simply do not fit the easy labels many try to apply to others they see at some distance. A rural man in the northern half of Alabama demonstrates the case.

He cannot be identified because it would be to his disadvantage. For the same reason, he cannot even be "placed" more precisely.

This man falls in the 35-45 age bracket from which the state is now taking some of its new leadership at various levels.

Unsurprisingly, he is by upbringing and basic emotional bent a racial segregationist. He was a supporter of George Wallace as governor, is still an admirer and presumably would back him again if he decides to run for that office in 1970.

If this anonymous rural southerner were to appear suddenly in a setting with northern doctrinaire liberals, they would quickly seize upon some of his utterances to brand him unacceptable according to their rigid moral judgments. But the significant fact about this fellow is that he has moved away from the pole of total segregation where he once stood.

Indeed, he has changed sufficiently to adjust himself to the idea of a 50-50 ratio of whites and blacks in the public schools of his town and county. He seems also to accept some racial mixing of the faculty in formerly all-white schools.

Part of the reason for his change he would never confess publicly to his neighboring southerners. In a substantial period of military service, he decided on the basis of his actual experiences that desegregation is "not all that bad."

Beyond that, he is responding further to the inescapable pressures of federal court orders to desegregate. Says he: "The courts have lifted a burden off our consciences. We know the law provides that they (Negroes) can go to our schools."

This man, like many another southerner, sees a sharp distinction between the edict of a court acting under the color of law, and federal guidelines which represent the discretionary judgments of HEW administrators. When the latter speak, it is the "government telling us what to do," and most southerners get their backs up.

Says the anonymous rural leader again: "We are going to respect the law here. We intend to see that Negroes have the privilege of a better education."

There is one other factor in his change, a factor this reporter had mentioned to him often as he toured Alabama extensively. The average segregationist white southerner has lost some faith in those politicians who promised that desegregation would never happen.

There can be no great credibility granted such political figures on this score today. What they said would not occur has occurred.

The rural man's continuing admiration for Wallace is on grounds other than race. He sees him as a man who got things done, who built trade schools and roads, provided free textbooks, and persuaded Alabama citizens to bear the higher taxes to pay for all this.

Yet no make-over miracle has been performed with this man. He does not want to see white youngsters in his area going to present all-black schools.

He thinks, as do his counterparts in many sectors of Alabama, that such schools will be closed before that happens. And he believes that the subsequent predictable flooding of Negroes into previously all-white schools (now "acceptably" desegregated) will produce such disproportionate black preponderance that whites who really cannot afford it will launch a new wave of private schools to escape the tide.

Hearing such comment, the northern dealer in southern stereotypes would see the man with blasts of moral fire. But the exercise would be destructive and largely self-serving. For he has moved—slowly, painfully, but truly. He is a different and a new southerner, and his hard but real adjustments to life are impressive.

It is interesting to look back over the space of time and recall memories of those years when the parents of the present day college youths were in their teens. In those far days great cry arose from the educational authorities of the country, advocating a new concept of education, called Progressive. Thunderous slogans were broadcast over the air waves to "Let Children Express Themselves" — "Do Not Frustrate Them" — "Go Easy on the Discipline" — "Don't Punish Them," and many more of the same nature. In the aftermath of these days, this progressive education seems to have born fruit of many varieties. We have to be mighty thankful that the vast majority of our young people have progressed and know the meaning of that very vital word, "discipline." They have gone on to express themselves most brilliantly. Now this majority — of say 97 per cent — I would suggest was achieved through the basic training and principles of their home life environment and aided by the good dedicated school teachers of those days, when they were taught the meaning of the three Rs mixed with varied As exemplified by this "Letter to the Editor," I would suggest that most of us quite naturally like to air our views. And prior to the early stages of progressive education we did not have TV to mirror our antics and visualize our liking to "sound off." But nowadays we have the camera to pick up and enhance, one-hundredfold, all the mouthings and the sordid details. But the camera's eye does emphasize the fact that the educational authorities are still dreaming that this three per cent minority should be allowed "to express themselves" and should "not be frustrated" and the word "discipline" has no meaning to the students or the minority of the faculty. Evidently that is on its way from San Francisco, where a Japanese-American educator, who probably never heard of the term "Progressive Education," but has the guts to stand firm. It has now reached the great University of Notre Dame, where turbulent students are given 15 minutes to meditate before sounding off. So we can be fairly confident that this trend will eventually reach the East coast.

After all this three per cent minority are not stupid, for they had to pass college entry exams to get where they are. And I do not think that they are entirely to blame for the upheavals on the college campus. The blame should be placed on the top brass of the educational authorities, who initiated this so-called progressive education and eliminated the social aspects. Not one of the young men or young girls were around when their mothers first heard of progressive education. Neither where the great majority of the present day teachers. And so, it is very interesting to see how the "great step forward" of those early times has turned out as we gaze into the bottom of the barrel and see how this three per cent minority reached the bottom. The majority of teachers never knew the meaning, or how to apply, self discipline and the fact remains that prior to the days of progressive education the old order endured none of the sickening displays we have these days.

Demonstrations
Editor, The Freeman

This is in regard to a letter, published in your columns on March 26, in which the author stated that various sorts of youthful protests (e.g., "civil rights demonstrations" and "demonstrations opposing United States action in Vietnam") are organized by Communists. He also said that the best way he knows to combat the spread of communism is through a belief in God and His Word. I would like to discuss both of these points.

As a past participant in many civil rights and Anti-Vietnam demonstrations, I can agree that some Communists are involved in their planning and carrying out. I can also state that they have never been in the majority and have had a voice no greater than their numbers. But would it not be suicide to reject those who are trying to correct some of the faults in America just because some of these people are Communists? I believe in the greatness of free speech. And I believe that both are strong enough to withstand any irrational assault by Communists or others, provided that we do not compromise our own freedoms by denying freedom to them.

I believe, thus, that the answer to Communism (which I oppose vehemently because it is fascistic both in ends and in means) is not indoctrination in the Word of God — the answer is freedom, openness, love. For the Communists are most against, and most afraid of, freedom. Is it not clear from the examples of Hungary and Czechoslovakia how much the Communist fear freedom, how much they fear that people just talking freely will destroy Communism? It makes sense, then, to use this freedom as the prime weapon against tyranny. So I propose that children be helped to think freely, to evaluate carefully, for in a careful, impartial analysis freedom will always be preferred to oppression.

Jews of Russia
Editor, The Freeman

This week Jews throughout the world celebrate the festival of Passover commemorating the exodus of the Israelites from ancient Egypt. Today, more than three thousand years later, three million Jews are still awaiting their redemption. They are the three million Jews of Russia.

The Soviet government today pursues a policy of forced assimilation by denying Jews their rights guaranteed in the Soviet Constitution as both a religion and a nationality. These rights are granted to all other religions and nationalities, but not to Jews.

As a direct result of these denials Jews have inadequate synagogues, religious articles, religious leaders, publications, and cultural facilities, Jewish schools and seminaries are non-existent in the Soviet Union today. Emigration for those who want to leave is almost impossible, although this right is guaranteed in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, to which the USSR is a signatory.

We of the Upstate Council of Youth for Soviet Jewry call upon the Soviet government to initiate a massive airlift this Passover for all Jews who wish to leave the Soviet Union. Our demand to the Soviets is, "Let them live as Jews or let them leave." We see this as the only solution to the problem of Soviet Jewry.

Dangerous Intersection
Editor, The Freeman

The following letter was forwarded to Vernon Ronk, commander, Lloyd Legion Post No. 193, Highland, N. Y. Recently Lloyd Post 193 requested that the Lloyd Town Board take action to improve the traffic conditions at the Tillson Avenue and Route 9W intersection. Lloyd Post 193 has taken a step in the right direction to help eliminate the dangers at the intersection. However, school bus No. 34 does not help to correct problems at this intersection. The school bus, which is north-bound near the hour of 4 p.m., stops and discharges pupils at this intersection. Some students must cross four lanes of a busy highway to reach their homes.

I see no reason why the school bus should stop on the east side of Route 9W when the pupils live on the west side of the highway. Another matter which pertains to highway safety: Why is the intersection of Route 9W and Route 299 dangerous, particularly at night. The correct solution would be the installation of at least 6 mercury vapor, high candle power, street lights. Another problem which involves traffic control; why is parking allowed on the both sides of Elting Place (near Main Street) on Sunday mornings.

ULSTER COUNTY LIBERAL
Kingston, N. Y.

Liberal View
Recent statements by Dr. Gerald Gorman, Ulster County Democratic Chairman, indicate the Democratic Party's desire to endorse Conservatives for public office in return for Conservative endorsement for Democrats, comes as a shock to the Liberal community. Apparently the Democratic leadership intends to abandon solutions to the mounting problems of education, recreation, health and civic improvement.

The strength of any political party is on the local level and apparently the Democrats are aiming to strengthen the Conservative Party even though we endorsed the Democratic slate for Aldermen last year and the city candidates for the County Legislature. It seems that the local Democratic leaders who embrace Conservatism have decided not to concern themselves with the future or not to experiment with new methods of achieving progress in our city. Dr. Gorman is turning his track to the records of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman and John F. Kennedy who pioneered in taking new steps for the future. Certainly we believe that every Democratic Alderman and Legislator who has Liberal endorsement should speak out in this action taken by Dr. Gorman.

How can the local Democrats start endorsing Conservatives when the Conservative Party has remained aloof in the fight for Civil Rights? How can the Democratic Party, the so called "party of progress," endorse Conservatives when the Conservative Party is against innovations and improvement? How can the Democratic Party, the so called "party of the people," endorse Conservatives when the Conservative Party membership has continuously voted against programs which would aid the poor? How can the Democratic Party endorse a Conservative when the Conservative Party is opposed to government planning which will enable the future to be better than the past?

Apparently Dr. Gorman would accept the endorsement of the Wallace Democrats or any other extreme group, if it meant another 200-300 votes in his pocket will once again seek the Liberal Community's aid, as he apparently is an expert in "political expediency." The Democratic leadership has taken a very dangerous action which will not be forgotten by Liberals for years to come.

U.S. Woman President?

By GEORGE GALLUP

Copyright, 1969, American Institute of Public Opinion. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with written consent of the copyright holders.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 26 — The chances of the U.S. following the example of Israel and India and choosing a woman to head the government appear rather slim at this point in history.

While a majority of 54 per cent of adults interviewed in a Gallup survey just completed say they would vote for a qualified woman for President, as many as 39 per cent say they would not.

Women More Opposed

What seems strange in this era — when women are fighting for equal rights — is that women themselves are more opposed to a President of their own sex than are men. Forty-nine per cent of women would vote for a woman for the nation's top office, while 58 per cent of men would do so.

The latest national findings represent a major shift of opinion from a Gallup survey 33 years ago (in 1936) when opinion was 2-to-1 against a woman for Chief Executive, but views have changed little over the last decade.

Unlike today, men in 1937 were far more opposed to the idea of a woman as President than were women.

Here is the question put to a carefully-selected sample of 1535 adults in over 300 localities during the period March 14 through 17:

If your party nominated a woman for President, would you vote for her if she qualified for the job?

Here are the latest results and trend:

A further question sought to find out whether people think the U.S. would be governed better or worse if women had more say in politics.

The results show that for every person who says "better" there is another who says "worse," while fully half think there would be "no difference" or else express no opinion. Surprisingly, women hold views closely comparable to those of men.

One of those who would like to see women play a greater role in politics is a 33-year old Indianapolis housewife, who said: "Women would bring a little more sincerity to politics and a little less politicking."

A youthful Washington, D.C., resident said: "Politics is a man's job. It takes 20 hours a day of hard work and decision-making and I don't think women are cut out for this."

These categories emerge from an analysis of all the views of persons who think the U.S. would be governed better if women had more say in politics: (1) Women are just as capable as men; (2) the number of men and women in government would be about equal; (3) women would bring a fresh, sincere approach; (4) women are more efficient.

Those who take the opposite position argue in these terms: (1) Women lack the background or experience—"politics is a man's world"; (2) men stand up better under pressure.

The question and result: Do you think the U.S. would be governed better or worse if women had more say in politics?

The result:
Better ..... 23%
Worse ..... 25%
No difference ..... 36%
No opinion ..... 16%

U.S. Wary of Soviet 'Safe Seas' Proposal

UPI Foreign News
On the Atlantic and Pacific Ocean approaches to the United States and in key passageways such as Gibraltar around the world delicate U.S. listening devices tell of the approach of potentially enemy submarines. American scientists descend to ocean floors to test man's ability to live and work from undersea chambers. And, as the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference reconvened at the beginning of its eighth year, a surprisingly affable Soviet representative, Aleksei A. Roshchin, rose to present the Soviet Union's version of the latest proposal to prevent man from destroying himself. He smilingly declared that if there were objections to some part of the Russian plan to ban use of the ocean floors for military installations. The Russian approach was negotiable. Between the men working on the ocean floor, the detection devices and the Soviet proposal there was a connection. What, the United States wanted to know, did the Soviets mean exactly by "military installations." To the surprise of its detractors, the Geneva conference had since its beginning in 1962 major achievements to its credit. Acting sometimes as mediator, sometimes proposing alternatives, it had assisted the United States and the Soviet Union to reach a widening circle of agreements ranging from a partial test ban on nuclear weapons, to a prohibition of nuclear weapons in outer space and in the Antarctic. And it had provided a valuable assist in persuading nations to sign the latest of these—a ban on proliferation of nuclear weapons. Between the U.S. and Soviet positions there did not seem great differences. In a letter to the conference, President Richard M. Nixon himself had proposed its members start negotiations to ban nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction from the ocean floor to "assure that the seabed, man's last frontier, remains free from the nuclear arms race."

Loyalty Day Plans Outlined

SAUGERTIES Loyalty Day 1969 will be celebrated on Saturday, May 3 in Saugerties with day-long events scheduled by members of the Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW and its auxiliary.

A Mass for peace will be offered at 9 a.m. at St. Mary of the Snow Church followed by a patriotic observance conducted by Rev. R. E. Shemenske at 10:30 a.m. at the Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street.

An afternoon parade will step off at 2 p.m. from the Division Street area winding its way through the village ending at Cantine Field where 5,000 hot dogs and soda will be distributed free to the marchers.

Parade Marshal Gilbert Ricks has sent out letters to various youth organizations to notify them of the parade. Should any group or organization, not already contacted, wish to participate, contact the chairman.

A dance in the evening from 9 to 1 at the VFW Hall, Livingston Street, open to the public, will climax the events. Music will be provided by the "Country 3". A buffet and beverage is included in the admission. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Serving on the committee are co-chairmen Miss Chris Carrotti and Ernest Legg; treasurer Gilbert Ricks; fund chairman Ignazio Bosco; secretary Mrs. Mary Bonack; recording secretary Mrs. Kay Boughman; field, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Brethaupt; basket of cheer Angelo Carrotti; dance committee Ignazio Bosco. Loyalty Day in Saugerties has been proclaimed by Mayor Cornelius Cox who calls upon the "people of our village to participate in public observance of this day."

VFW Auxiliary Rummage Sale

SAUGERTIES The VFW spring rummage sale will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 17, 18 and 19, next to Overbaugh's florist, Partition Street. Doors will open at 10 a.m.

Mrs. Margaret McColl is chairman for the sale sponsored by the Auxiliary to Saugerties Memorial Post 5034, VFW, with Mrs. Katherine Helm assisting. Mrs. McColl will pick up clothing, toys, costume jewelry, and household items from persons wishing to donate them or items may be left at 132 Market Street.

It was also announced at last week's regular meeting of the auxiliary that the VFW buddy poppy week will be held May 2 thru May 9. Five thousand poppies have been ordered and the chairmen, Miss Sharan Bonack and Joseph Cusack, intend an intense drive to insure their distribution to the Saugerties populace. Uninformed members of the post and auxiliary will be on the streets soliciting sales to be used exclusively to continue the hospital and rehabilitation work of the VFW on a local and national scale. The poppy boy and girl will assist and also be on a float in the Loyalty Day parade to help the sales.

Installation of the new officers of the post and auxiliary will take place Saturday, May 24, in the VFW Hall. Election is slated for the April meetings.

Talk Listed

By Club Speaker

"Silk Road to China" was the subject of a talk presented by Mrs. Raymond Quackenbush at the recent meeting of the Saugerties Monday Club with Mrs. Herman Knaust Jr. as hostess.

Mrs. Gordon Keely presided at the business meeting at which announcement was made of the county meeting to be held in New Paltz, April 9. Plans were also made for the state convention of Federated Women's Clubs to be held in Syracuse April 14-17.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sheldon Fuller.

Thirty-three 5th and sixth grade students from the Grant D. Morse School have been rehearsing in their own elementary school band. The group consists of five second-year students, and 28 "beginners."

The students have active competition for seats in the organization. Any student who wishes a higher seat in the band may challenge a student with a higher position. This system encourages competition and is entirely student-run except for the judging of the challenge competitions. Student officers include Brian Rice, president; Gina Delong, secretary; and Timothy Landell, librarian. They assist in the competition, the completion of attendance records and the collection and cataloging of music.

Members of the band include: Clarissa Avery, Christopher

Greenkill Avenue Residents Cite Penn-Central Eyesore

By WALTER S. CLARK
KINGSTON
"These conditions have existed for many years and are worsening."
That comment came from Albert E. Eisele of 96 Greenkill Avenue, relating to the unsightly condition of property of the Penn-Central Railroad property between Wilbur and South Clinton Avenues.
Eisele, an IBM employee, in a letter to The Freeman, complimented Jacob Berinato, proprietor of Jake's Grill and Restaurant, for bringing to public attention the condition Eisele described as "dastardly." He noted the recent renovations that have added to the attractiveness of the restaurant, and the efforts of property owners along Greenkill Avenue to keep their homes in good repair and their properties neatly landscaped.
"Still, we are faced with the mess created on railroad property," Eisele said. He noted that over the years other businesses along the street have renovated their properties and added to the landscaping to make the area an asset to the city. "Civic and community-minded citizens have devoted many hours and contributed much money to help beautify this area," Eisele said.

He pointed out that the Koenig Athletic Club, sponsors of the Metropolitan Knott League, took a tract of land at Greenkill and South Clinton Avenue and developed it into a ball park for youngsters to learn the art of organized baseball. "This area is kept in good repair by the members of the Koenig AC and monies donated by civic and sports-minded citizens is used each year to paint and repair this property," Eisele said.

He also noted that that Kingston Boys Club has spent thousands of dollars and time devoted by members of labor unions and residents of the area to renovating the old brick row into one of the best appearing buildings in Kingston.
"But, all of this work and effort is smeared by litter-drenched, foul smelling railroad property running in front of these places and residences along Greenkill Avenue," the IBM'er wrote.
He spoke of the railroad loading platform and the area along the property he owns, and termed it "not only an eyesore, but a health, safety and fire hazard! The platform, he noted, is badly in need of repair and the surrounding yards are littered with combustible materials, which he added "would put all properties in jeopardy if fire with a high wind should hit the area."

Eisele said that over the years he had contacted the Department of Health, fire department and police officials and the mayor's office, and each time complaints "had been footballed right back to the railroad." The resident explained that two or three years ago a committee was formed in the old 10th Ward to try to get city officials to force property owners to clean the area. "It seems that either the railroad is exempt from this move, or the City Fathers are reluctant to do anything about the situation."
In concluding, Eisele said, "I think it is about time that someone should start looking into this situation and do something about it. This condition is not very appetizing to the visitor coming into Kingston, and certainly it is not helpful to bringing future residents and businesses to the central part of Kingston."

Suite of 3 Cells for Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A suite of three cells—complete with living and dining quarters and a television set—is being built for Sirhan Bishara Sirhan in case the young Jordanian is convicted of assassinating Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.
The California Department of Corrections wants Sirhan to stay in the special extra-secure cell whether he gets life imprisonment or the death penalty.
"If he's convicted," a Corrections Department officer said, "There's always the chance that some inmate would try to kill him. We've spent about $5,000 to remodel this section so he'll never come into contact with other prisoners."
The walled-off suite of cells is being prepared at the California Medical Facility at Vacaville, near Sacramento. A bill pending in the California Legislature would permit Sirhan, if sentenced to death, to stay there rather than at San Quentin's death row as is now required.
Sirhan's trial, starting its 13th week, was recessed Friday until Tuesday with rebuttal witnesses for the prosecution on the stand. The defense has rested its case with testimony that Sirhan did not meaningfully premeditate the assassination in Los Angeles last June 5.
Phil Guthrie, the corrections officer, said preparations for Sirhan's incarceration were being made in advance of a verdict because "we'd get him within days after sentencing." If the jury convicts Sirhan of first-degree murder, it will decide the penalty—death or life imprisonment.
Sirhan would be confined to three adjoining cells—each about 10 by 15 feet. In one would be a kitchen with a stainless steel stove where uniformed guards would cook Sirhan's meals. Most prisoners eat in a central kitchen. Sirhan's quarters, Guthrie said, would "eliminate the risk of someone trying to poison his food."

Wilson Awaits Word From Biafran Leader

LAGOS (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Wilson today awaited Biafran leader Odumegwu Ojukwu's response to the Briton's invitation to meet.
Wilson said he had bounced a message to Ojukwu "off some unidentifiable satellite" as he wound up his four-day visit to Nigeria and to recaptured parts of the eastern region.
He planned to fly to Addis Ababa today to meet with Ethiopian Emperor Haile Selassie and officials of the Organization for African Unity. He leaves Addis Ababa Wednesday for London.
Selassie is chairman of the OAU's consultative committee on Nigeria, a committee pledged to honor the boundaries African countries inherited from their colonial rulers.
Although there was no immediate response from Ojukwu, speculation persisted in Addis Ababa that Ojukwu would come there to see Wilson. He came to the Ethiopian capital last August to present Biafra's case at unsuccessful OAU peace talks on Nigeria.
During his visit to Nigeria, Wilson lined up firmly behind the federal government whose military forces are partially equipped by Britain. Despite considerable sentiment for the Biafrans in Britain, the British government is no more anxious to see Nigeria break up into tribal fragments than are the African governments that fear the same thing might happen to them.
Wilson told a news conference that his bid to see Ojukwu implied "no question of recognition, mediation or negotiation in the 20-month-old civil war."
He said he wanted to ask Ojukwu about relief and getting supplies to civilians inside Biafra, and to explain Britain's backing of federal authorities.
"I want to hear general views of how this matter of the war could be settled," said Wilson.
Wilson said he did not ask Gowon for a halt in the bombing which has aroused much British public opinion because of the civilian casualties.
Wilson was taking assurance from Gowon that Nigeria is willing to hold peace talks, that the Ibo tribesmen or Biafrans will be guaranteed safety as full citizens of the Nigerian federation, and that pilots who bomb civilian targets will be punished.
The Nigerians had said as much before Wilson's visit.

Nine Graduate Boating Course

KINGSTON
Nine area residents were awarded Coast Guard certificates for having successfully completed basic seamanship and small boat handling courses Tuesday, at Kingston High School.
The courses were conducted by the Kingston Flotilla 10-12 of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.
Clark Ede, Flotilla Training Officer, presented the certificates to those who passed a written examination on the subjects covered in the nine week courses.
The nine graduates included Sal Castiglione, Hal Chapman, Lester, Janis and Douglas Frost, Rita Lukaszewski, Frank

Britt's Items Recovered, Four Are Accused

KINGSTON
Security officers at Britt's Department Store in Kingston Shopping Plaza reported today the recovery of merchandise valued at $110 after a 16-year-old girl and three juveniles were taken into custody at the store and accused of larceny.
Arrested on a petit larceny count and scheduled for arraignment in City Court was Bryninda Flores, of 3 North Front Street. A security officer said the girl had in her possession a woman's dress, handbag and a suit which she was accused of taking at the store.
The three juveniles were referred to the Juvenile Aid Bureau headed by Sergeant William Whalen. It was said they will be petitioned into Family Court. The three were picked up in the store and accused of stealing merchandise.

"According to a recent law," said a spokesman for the schools, "anyone intending to obtain a driver's license is required to have three hours of classroom instruction in Driver Education" before taking a road test.
The schools' Director of Adult Education, Raphael Klein, said the course will begin on Tuesday in the Vocational Education Building from 7 to 10 p. m. He said applicants for the course may register by phone or in person today and Tuesday from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Rule Suicide In Greene Death

WINDHAM
A preliminary verdict of suicide has been given by Greene County Coroner Fred Decker in the death of 63-year-old Bryce J. Crispell, who was found shot through the head in his mobile trailer home in Maplecrest shortly before 9 p. m. Sunday.
Leeds State Police said the investigation will continue. No notes were found and no motive was immediately determined, authorities said.
The body was discovered by Raymond Lewis, a neighbor, who summoned troopers from Leeds substation.
Authorities said it was theorized the man placed a .22 caliber rifle under his chin and pulled the trigger. A bullet entered the victim's brain. The rifle was found near the body.
Coroner Decker and Dr. Joseph Bellamy, Hudson pathologist, investigated the case with BCI Investigator J. D. Mercer, Sergeant F. W. Hillfrank and Trooper J. J. Syvertsen.

Planning Makes Rhinebeck Fair a Success

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK The 124th edition of the Dutchess County Fair at Rhinebeck is scheduled for Aug. 19-24, but 90 per cent of the great spectacle has already been outlined.

Sam Lloyd, secretary and manager of the annual event, has been working feverishly through the past few months to get this fair off to a solid start.

"A lot depends on the weather," said Lloyd, Wednesday. "Three days of substantial rain two years ago held the attendance down, but good weather last year gave us a 33,000 jump in attendance."

The fair had a record attendance of 141,227 paid at the gate in 1968. Previous high was 115,737 in 1966.

As the attractions have been added, and the buildings erected, the crowds have grown proportionately. In 1958 the attendance was half of last year's, only 72,144.

Agriculture Emphasized.

"It is a form of entertainment," said Lloyd. "We try to put something in the fair for everyone. Naturally, the emphasis has always been on agriculture. The fair is run by the Dutchess County Agriculture Association, and that same non-profit group owns the land upon which the fair is built."

Emphasize Gardening

"But besides the many barns of livestock, from poultry to cattle, and the field crops shown, there is an emphasis on horticulture for the gardener and even some wild game on display sponsored by the Northern Dutchess Rod and Gun Club."

No one going to a county fair can ignore the midway, where 161 booths with strong men and strong-armed men.

The carnival concessions are rented on a block basis to the carnival operator. He leases a certain chunk of real estate and divides it up among the numerous booth owners.

The fair pretty much supports itself. This year's budget is $172,000, which is big business for a week's show. But $202,000 was spent last year. The fair carries a present debt of $165,000 largely in building amortizations.

The budget receives some help from state and county funds. Fifty per cent of the proceeds come from gate receipts. Another 25 per cent is taken from the carnival and commercial concessions, which rent space. Another 12 per cent is received in entry fees. The state contributes nine per cent of the budget and Dutchess County adds another four per cent.

Featured Attraction

Frank Sinatra, Jr. will appear before the grandstand with an eight piece combo Aug. 24 in afternoon and evening shows.

Other performers include Joey Chitwood's auto thrills show, which drew much favorable comment last year; the Herrick puppet shows for children; and back by popular request after a year's absence will be Garland Parnell, the organ grinder with his monkey companion. Parnell strolls the picnic area making friends with all.

In addition, five supporting acts will be seen daily on the big stage in front of the grandstand.

Horse lovers will have their fill with four days of horse shows and one day of harness racing.

In place of a contest for Miss Dutchess County, a new idea in band competition may be experimented with. School and village, concert and marching bands may show what they can do.

Some Innovations

A five-year plan is in the thinking stage for building an early American village on the fair grounds. Much of the material for this building will be taken from the dismantled parts of an old fair building taken down to make way for two new commercial exposition buildings last year. Naturally, the village will not be finished this year, but the arrangement of it will advance past the planning stage.

Bavarian Beer Garden

A Bavarian Beer Garden, with all of the charm of the Alps, has a good chance of becoming one of the main attractions this summer. The spot chosen for this project is centrally located on the grounds. A large tent is anticipated to cover a large expanse of ground. And the decoration with a large beer-selling capacity will be located in the center.

Several food booths will be located about the perimeter, and Lloyd spoke of strolling German brass bands, complete with the oom-pah bass, to lend atmosphere.

Some of the other attractions that have been arranged include a fireworks display on Tuesday and Wednesday; daily fashion shows, with the help of area department stores; talent search among young people from 10 a.m. daily; a Polish band with accompanying exhibition dancers, and a tractor pulling contest.

Perhaps the most worthwhile project of all is the Hall of Health. About forty men and women from the Dutchess County Department of Health and the Oral Diagnostic Center of St. Francis Hospital processed 17,000 screening on physical tests last year for no charge.

Included in the free health checkup are tests for breathing, hearing, blood pressure, pulse and respiration, diabetes, hemoglobin, electrocardiogram, chest X-ray, and oral cancer detection. The early detection tests are available to adults only. A comparable series of tests would cost the individual about $55 if done in a hospital.

Model Homes

A model electric home will be on display, showing the latest in luxury living. The home belongs to the fair, and is leased to Central Hudson Power and Gas.

All of the exhibits sponsored by the fair committee are open free of charge, with the exception of the auto thrills show.

"The charge for that is intended to limit the size of the crowd day of the fair to speak with their constituents."

Just one request is made from the office of the Rhinebeck fair — please don't show up doing a rain dance.

County Board of Representatives will be available every day of the fair to speak with their constituents.

Just one request is made from the office of the Rhinebeck fair — please don't show up doing a rain dance.

Name Health Panel At Ulster College

STONE RIDGE

A 21-member Health Science Advisory Council has been appointed by the Board of Trustees of Ulster County Community College to help the institution in regards to its health science curriculums, the college announced today.

The council is composed of physicians, dentists, medical laboratory personnel, scientists, hospital and nursing administrators, state conservation representatives and guidance counselors.

The college said the council will advise UCCC in the areas of nursing, biological sciences, medical laboratory technology and other healing science programs.

College President George B. Erbstein said "many mutually beneficial results can be obtained by Advisory Council members working with college representatives toward the development of special programs, the improvement of existing offerings, and the discovery of new areas of community needs."

The Advisory Council includes

Dr. Herbert Derman, director of the Kingston City Laboratory; Morris Nussbaum, a sanitary chemist and bacteriologist at the laboratory; Katherine Heavy a nurse at the county

Tumor Clinic; Anthony Triulzi, Kingston Hospital administrator and Sister Mary Charles, Benedictine Hospital administrator.

Highland Sets Driver Course

HIGHLAND

The Board of Education of the Highland Central School District has approved the offering of the state mandated safe driving course as required by Section 501, New York State Vehicle and Traffic Law.

Under the provisions of these new requirements, any applicant for a driver's license after April 1 who has not satisfactorily completed a high school driver education program must show proof of completion of a three hour approved safe driving practice course.

Joseph Mikesch, Driver Education instructor at the Highland Jr.-Sr. High School, will be the instructor for the adult course.

The program will begin April 14 from 7 to 10 p. m. Applicants must notify the high school Principal, William G. Miller, Jr., of their intent and remit a $5 registration fee payable to the Highland Central School District. All participants in the program must be pre-registered and in possession of a New York State Motor Vehicle Department Learners Permit.

Following completion of the course, participants will be issued the Motor Vehicle Department Form MVD-278, which is valid for one year from the date of issuance. This form, along with the Learner's Permit, will allow for the scheduling of the Driver Road Test.

Present plans call for the course to be held monthly on the second Monday. If the demand is too low, the school intends to hold courses every two months.

Rapids Postpone

The regular meeting of Rapid Hose Co. No. 1 scheduled for Thursday night will be postponed because of Holy Thursday. The meeting has been rescheduled to Wednesday, April 9 at 8 p. m.

Lammon-Nitsche Nuptials

St. Patrick's Church, Corning, was the setting Saturday, Mar. 29, for the wedding of Miss Mary Catherine Lammon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Lammon, to Charles Gerald Nitsche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nitsche of Painted Post. The bride's mother is the former Catherine McConnell, daughter of Mrs. Joseph F. McConnell of 208 Clinton Avenue, Kingston. Her father, who is the son of Daniel Lammon of 31 Shufeldt Street, Kingston, is president of Corning Packaging Company, a division of Corning Glass Works.

The Rev. John Mulligan performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. Mrs. Joseph Clancy was organist and soloist was Joseph Lesso.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory silk organza and French re-embroidered Alencon lace with matching mantilla attached to a lace Camelot cap. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, stephanotis, and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Miss Christine Lammon, sister of the bride. Attendants were Mrs. John Blase of San Antonio, Tex., Miss Mary Onie Jackson of New York City, Miss Terry O'Toole of New York City, all former college classmates of the bride, and Miss Patricia McCarthy of Painted Post. They wore light pink gowns with empire waistlines, featuring back panels. English ivy entwined with pink satin ribbon served as their headpieces, and they carried small bouquets of mixed flowers in shades of deep blue, pink, red, and white.

Best man for his brother was Jude Nitsche of Rockville, Md. Ushers were Peter Calkins, cousin of the bridegroom, Martin Murray of Painted Post, Daniel J. Lammon Jr. and Michael Lammon, brothers of the bride.

After the wedding, a reception for 200 guests was held at the Lodge on the Green.

Mrs. Nitsche received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics from Newton College of the Sacred Heart in Massachusetts in 1967. She had been employed as a computer programmer with Metropolitan Life Insurance Company in New York.

Her husband received his Bachelor of Science degree in teaching from Mansfield State College in Pennsylvania in 1966, and his Master of Arts degree in History from Niagara University in 1968. He is teaching at Brockport High School and in the fall plans to return to school to receive his PhD.

ART DISPLAY—Mrs. Bernard A. Feeney Sr. of 22 Sharon Lane, Kingston, is pictured here with samples of her art work which are on display now at Kingston Trust Company on Fair Street, Kingston. The center piece of beaded anemones, an example of French art, has been custom made by Mrs. Feeney, and is arranged in an antique French china punch bowl. The display includes two still life and three landscaped paintings. Rome Haul, right, was painted especially for her husband, Bernard Feeney Sr., in memory of the days when his father traveled the canal. Also included in the exhibit are Chinese, Spanish, and French fans from her collection which she has been assembling for many years. Another painting, a Mediterranean scene, is a favorite among her friends. Mrs. Feeney has been taking art lessons for two and one-half years. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My husband works at night on the front door when my husband goes to bed and this keeps the salesmen and neighbors from knocking on the door or ringing the doorbell.

We hang a sign that reads,

"SHHHHHHHH BABY ASLEEP",

As an extra precaution I also put two adhesive bandages crisscross on the bell.

Mrs. A. B.

Dear Heloise

For married couples who are hoping to build their own home one day, I find that keeping what I call a "Wife Book" is very handy. This book is simply a small looseleaf notebook. Everytime I find a room design, piece of furniture, furniture arrangement, etc. that I may want in my home, I have some place to keep it as well as jot down ideas.

When the time comes to build our own home, I will have many ideas to work with.

The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DOREN

The Russians, who like to do the unexpected thing, are now suggesting, in the disarmament talks being conducted in Geneva, that nuclear weapons be prohibited and military installations of any kind be forbidden on the ocean floor outside the twelve-mile territorial limit.

To an ignorant person like myself, this seems a highly sensible idea. There are all sorts of threats to the sea these days. Massive as it is, it is not immune to chemical agents that seep out from its shores. A lot of people are beginning to worry about the sea. Surely it is the last place for nuclear arms.

So I would have expected the Russian suggestion to be looked upon with approval. No, I really didn't expect it. If such a proposal had been made by the Swiss, for instance, the world would have nodded its head and said yes, yes, a splendid idea, if only we could get the Russians to adopt it. Now that it comes from the Russians, the first reaction of our great country that, as President Nixon says, is interested in peace first and foremost, is to hedge.

Gerard C. Smith, director of the United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, said he would need several days to consider the Russian proposal. One can almost see the toss of Mr. Smith's head and hear his sniff as he added: "I am inclined to doubt that we would have much interest in a treaty which would eliminate the possibility of any military use of the seabed."

Oddly enough, at the same time that Mr. Smith was expressing his doubts, President Nixon, in a letter to the delegates at the disarmament meeting, particularly emphasized the need to prohibit the placement of nuclear weapons of destruction on the seabed.

I hope that Mr. Smith will get together with President Nixon. I hope that President Nixon's point of view will prevail. It should. Perhaps there is no cause for worry. But I am sorry to see, time after time, that a suggestion which would seem to point directly toward the peace we say we want is turned off by somebody as though it were so much nonsense. And all too often that somebody is an American.

For a great people which made a nation out of a wilderness, with pioneering ingenuity and invention, we have developed a tight mindedness sad to see. Our first reaction to every new thought is to say Nah. This, my fellow Americans, was not the way the West was won nor the wheels of the Republic set to turning.

Of course, I am just enough of a typical American to wish that for once we could make the good suggestion first. Why does it have to be the Russians? Why could not we, or our own Mr. Smith who is supposed to be connected with arms control and disarmament, why could not he have been the one to offer an ocean bed free of mortality?

I want us to be first, but first in wisdom, justice, and compassion; first in horse sense and foresight; I want us to be smart. Too often we seem to be merely big. In the long run the race must go to the head rather than to the heft.

Doing The Right Thing

A QUIZ FOR BRIDESMAIDS AS WELL AS FOR BRIDES

The height of the wedding season — June — will be upon us before we know it. Brides are choosing their bridesmaids, making plans for their costumes, and wondering what to give them as gifts. The bridesmaids in turn are asking themselves what their duties are, what their expenses will be, and whether they should entertain for the bride, and if so, how? This quiz will help both bride and bridesmaid to know exactly what to expect. If you score 70 or above (ten points for each correct answer) you need little advice; below 70 means you should consult the wedding chapters in Emily Post's Etiquette.

Q. Bridesmaids who come from out of town generally pay (a) all transportation and lodging costs; (b) transportation costs, but the bride finds them lodging with friends or pays their hotel bill.

A. (b) Unless the bride offers to pay all expenses and the girls know she is financially able to do so.

Q. The maid of honor is always (a) the bride's closest friend; (b) the bride's sister, if she has one.

A. (b) The sister closest to the bride in age is usually chosen. If she has no sister near her age, the bride chooses a friend.

Q. The bride's attendants (a) should wear dresses of the same color; (b) may wear a variety of colors.

A. (a) The dresses may be in graduated shades of the same color, but contrasting or varied colors would not give an harmonious effect.

Q. The bridesmaid's costumes are paid for (a) by the bride; (b) by the girls themselves.

A. (b) Occasionally a wealthy bride will offer to pay for all the dresses, but in most cases it would be more of an expense than the bride could afford.

Q. When the maid of honor gives a shower, (a) she must plan and pay for it herself;

"WHITE BREAKFAST" — The eighth annual "White Breakfast," conducted by the Guild for Christian Service of Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston, will be held on Maundy Thursday, Apr. 3 at 9:30 a.m. at the church. A service of inspiration and dedication will take place in the sanctuary after the fellowship breakfast. Making final plans for the event are (l-r) Mrs. William Palen, Mrs. James Beesley, Mrs. Elmore Nathan, Mrs. William Askue. Another committee member, Mrs. William Ryland, is not pictured. All women of the community are invited to attend. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

(b) she may ask the bridesmaids to chip in and do it with her.

A. (b) The maid of honor may give a shower by herself if she wishes, but in most cases the girls get together to share the costs and the work involved.

W. A 12 to 14 year old sister of the bride may be (a) a junior bridesmaid; (b) a flower girl.

A. (a) Flower girls should not be over four or five years old.

Q. If the groom is having four ushers, the bride (a) should have the same number of bridesmaids, or fewer; (b) may have four bridesmaids, or more.

A. (a) There should never be more bridesmaids than ushers.

Knicks, Celts A Win Away

By United Press International

The underdogs continue to have a ball in the National Basketball Association playoffs. Both the wise old Boston Celtics and the brash New York Knickerbockers hold 3-0 leads in the best of seven competitions over the favored Philadelphia 76ers and Baltimore Bullets. In the West, the San Francisco Warriors were waiting for tonight in hopes of picking up their third win—and a 3-0 margin—over the startled Los Angeles Lakers.

The Celtics punished the 76ers Sunday, 125-118, on Philadelphia's home floor and the

Russians Repeat in Ice Hockey

STOCKHOLM (UPI)—Russia continues to reign as the world amateur ice hockey champion despite two losses to Czechoslovakia in the just completed tournament and the United States faces realignment to a lower classification.

The Russians, clinched their seventh consecutive world title Sunday when they beat Canada 4-2 after Czechoslovakia had dropped a 1-0 decision to Sweden.

Although Russia, Sweden and Czechoslovakia all finished with identical 8-2 records, the Soviets took first place for their better goals average. Sweden, two-time conqueror of Czechoslovakia, finished second and the Czechs third.

The United States lost to Finland 7-3 Sunday to wind up with an 0-10 record. Since the Americans finished last in the six-country competition, they will be dropped from the A classification and into the lesser B group.

"I don't know what will happen to our hockey now," said John Mayasich, the U.S. playing coach. "The whole system will have to change in the U.S. if we are going to have a fair chance to get back into the A group and fight for the title."

Mayasich, however, didn't hold much hope for improvement. He said, "I'm afraid there won't be any change. The Association (American Amateur Hockey Association) will go to sleep again until next March when it's time to nominate a team for the B group in Romania."

In the meantime, the precision-passing, hard-skating Russians will be the team to beat again in the 1970 championships in Canada.

Niagara Falls Cops Small Fry

HUDSON The Moose Small Fry Basketball championship went to a hard-charging Niagara Falls quintet Sunday when it romped the Hudson No. 2 team 71-23. The team had given Richmond Hill a similar drubbing Saturday night in the semifinals, 77-27.

For the champions, Danny Oliverie, the tourney's most valuable player, led his teammates—all of whom scored—with 15 points.

Hudson No. 2, down 44-14 at the half, had reached the finals by edging out Waverly, 27-26. Waverly had won over Kingston in the quarter finals 48-36. Niagara Falls topped Rochester 60-51, and Richmond Hill had defeated Baldwinville 54-45.

Kingston reached the quarter-finals via a victory over Elmira 55-42.

The Kingston squad was sponsored by the Moose International club and coached by Frank Roedell.

Pipers Rout Stars, 123-81; Play DeMicco's in Semis

KINGSTON One team never made it to the ill-starred Kingston Basketball Tournament Sunday night.

In the second game of the scheduled twinbill, Felicello Pipers of Marlboro drubbed a hastily assembled Kingston all-star team, 123 to 81.

Early in the evening, Tournament Director Andrew J. Murphy III got an urgent telephone message from Marshall O'Neill, late of UCCC, that Wiley's Flying Aces were grounded in Poughkeepsie with an insufficient number of players to make the trip to Kingston.

Clarkstown Recs, who had traveled 70 miles for the game, were sent home.

The Recs will be back on Friday, April 11, to meet Aero Lake in one of the semi-final contests at 8:30 p.m. Favored DeMicco Motors of Kingston take on the Pipers in the opener at 7:30 p.m. at the municipal auditorium.

The tournament-hardened Pipers, champions of the Newburgh City League, set a seasonal record with their 123 points against the locals last night. Their previous high was 113. The Pipers came to Kingston fresh off a 13-point loss to St. Andrew's Bishops of Beacon in the finals of the Port Jervis tournament Saturday night.

Jim Farley, no relation to the famed politico but a former All-American out of the University of Kansas, led the Pipers with 34 points. Six of the other seven players in the red uniform hit for double figures. John Sileno dunked 19. Frank Benevento and Ralph Cook potted 17 each. Steve Aurigemma hit 15 and Larry Clinton 14 in addition to numerous rebounds.

The locals fell behind in the first five minutes and trailed 51-35 at halftime. Charlie Lay came on with a strong second half to lead the losers with 19 points.

Willis Locke was runnerup with 13 points and four other players hit 10 each.

The score:

Felicello Pipers (123)	Bali's All Stars (81)
Farley 14 6 34	Locke 6 1 13
Aurigemma 6 3 15	Wood 4 2 10
Sileno 8 3 19	Moore 5 0 10
Benevento 7 3 17	Lay 8 3 19
Cook 8 1 17	Corrado 4 1 9
Catalano 2 0 4	Bruno 4 2 10
McClinton 4 6 14	Matthews 4 2 10

Metropolitan Stars Steal Upstate Cage Tournament

ALTAMONT, N.Y. (AP)—The championship game for the second High School All-Star Basketball Tourney was an individual and team duel Sunday at the LaSalette Seminary here, but New York City made a successful defense in overtime against Connecticut, 84-83.

Rice High School's Jose Paris, team captain, stole the ball with 17 seconds left and broke away for the winning basket.

In the consolation game earlier, Massachusetts downed New York State, 84-76.

The city team nabbed two places on the all-tournament squad: Ron Williams of Boys' High, who took game honors with 28 points, and James Brown of Long Island City.

Ernie DiGregorio of St. Thomas More High in Colchester, Conn., named most valuable player, made the team for Connecticut.

High 26 points—and a matching 26 from Jim Fitzsimmons of Fairfield Prep—accounted for the nip-and-tuck game leading to the 79-79 tie and the overtime period.

Frank Costello of Catholic

Memorial High in Boston scored 18 points for Massachusetts in the consolation match and also was named to the squad. Lloyd Merriman of Boston's Rindge Tech took game honors, with 21 points, in New York State's loss.

Don Johnston of Jamestown High, Jamestown, N.Y., was the fifth member of the all-tournament team, leading his squad with 19 points in the consolation game.

The two-day tournament was sponsored by the New York State Scholastic Writers Association.

NHL Points for Playoffs

(By Associated Press)

Its record-breaking regular season ended, the National Hockey League prepared today for the annual Stanley Cup playoffs.

In the East Division, the champion Montreal Canadiens host the third place New York Rangers and runner-up Boston Bruins face the fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs in Wednesday's opening games. In the West, champion St. Louis is home against third place Philadelphia while second-place Oakland faces fourth-place Los Angeles.

In Sunday's final games, New York thumped Toronto 4-0, Boston slugged Montreal 6-3, Chicago walloped Detroit 9-5, Pittsburgh edged Philadelphia 2-1 and Los Angeles tied Minnesota 3-3. In Saturday's games Montreal clinched the East title by beating Boston 5-3, New York topped Toronto for third place 4-2, Chicago and Detroit played a 1-1 tie, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh tied 3-3, Oakland bombed Minnesota 7-2 and St. Louis dropped Los Angeles 3-1. With all final positions determined after Saturday's games, Sunday's action was strictly for individual bonuses and more record-setting.

A Bit of Golf History

Henry Survives "8" For $40,000 Jackpot

MIAMI (UPI)—College rivals Bunky Henry and Bob Murphy "got the order mixed up" during a ragged round and it cost the pudgy Murphy $26,350 in the $200,000 National Airlines golf tournament.

Henry, a golfing rookie from Valdosta, Ga., whose prior claim to sports fame had been kicking footballs, dunked Murphy by one stroke Sunday to win the first-place $40,000, despite a disaster at the 13th hole where he hit into the water twice for a triple-bogey eight.

He may be the only man to ever win a major PGA tournament with an eight on a single hole.

"Bob and I played against each other right through college when he was at Florida and I was at Georgia Tech," said Henry, whose grandmother nicknamed him "Bunky" after a comic strip character. His real name—seldom used—is George.

"Murphy and I were on the practice tee this morning and we agreed we should finish one-two in this thing," said Henry. "He said 'Yeah, it would be good, but let's not get the order mixed up.'"

Murphy, the 26-year-old native of Bartow, Fla., who created a sensation in golfdom last year when he won more than $105,000 as a rookie, carried a five-stroke lead over Henry into the final round as the leader at 13 under par. But he hit into the and four times Sunday for a 76 and a four-way tie for the second-place money.

Also one-stroke behind the winner and collecting $13,650 each were Australian Bruce Crampton, Dan Sikes, who collected the 205-yard 15th hole and California Dave Stockton. Henry posted a 69-73-66-70-278 in the four-day tournament, the second richest spot on the PGA tour. Murphy had a 69-66-76-279; Sikes 70-71-72-279; Crampton, Dan Sikes, who collected $7,200.

Arthur Ashe's Loss Could Be Big 'Win'

UPI Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UPI)—Arthur Ashe, the loser in a brilliant five-set duel with Andres Gimeno in the final of the Madison Square Garden Challenge Trophy Open tennis tournament, was also a very big winner.

Ashe, champion in the first U. S. Open at Forest Hills last September, has refused to join either Gimeno's National Tennis League or the other contract professional league, World Championship Tennis. It is Ashe's contention that he is an independent pro, playing under the umbrella and rules of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association.

It was Ashe's first venture into playing for pay, and he walked off the court with $3,690.62. More important was that he walked off to the wildly enthusiastic cheers of 9,122 fans who got more than their money's worth in witnessing the classic match of Gimeno's tactics against Ashe's power, the 6-1, 6-2, 3-6, 6-8, 9-7 battle, that lasted just under three hours, proved Ashe's value as a gate attraction. It was he who supplied the drama and the excitement. Gimeno, a wonderfully warm native of Barcelona, gains the affection of spectators by his sportsmanship and touches of humor, but his delicate tactics and almost chess-like approach to play is not conducive to firing up fans and making them want to come back for more.

Pancake Palmer Makes Like Pitcher in October, 1966

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

On a sunny October afternoon in Los Angeles in 1966, the fabled career of Sandy Koufax ended in defeat in the second game of the World Series.

But the two guys in the headlines that day (no one knew at the time that Koufax would never pitch again) were Jim Palmer and Willie Davis. Palmer pitched a four-hit shutout for Baltimore and Davis undermined Koufax's pitching effort by making three errors in one inning.

Neither Palmer nor Davis has been in the headlines much since. Palmer has never done anything to match that pitching performance and Davis has seldom done anything spectacular enough to overshadow the blunders of that game.

This past weekend in Florida, Palmer and Davis were again in the spotlight. Again this time, things went well for Palmer and were a disaster for Davis.

Palmer, plagued with arm trouble the past two seasons during which he's won just three games, pitched eight scoreless innings of three-hit ball as the Baltimore Orioles blanked Pittsburgh 5-0.

Davis, who hit only .257 and .250 in 1967 and 1968 but seemed to be finally living up to his potential this spring, suffered a hairline fracture of the right arm Saturday night when he was hit by a Claude Raymond pitch. He was replaced by a rookie named Bill Russell Sunday as the Dodgers lost to the Braves 4-2.

In other games Sunday, Cincinnati outlasted Houston 6-4, St. Louis topped the Phillies 5-3, Boston edged Detroit 6-5, the White Sox turned back Minnesota 6-4, Washington beat Kansas City 5-1, Montreal nipped the Dodgers 7-6, San Francisco outlasted Cleveland 13-11, the Cubs drubbed Oakland 8-3, Seattle blanked the California B team 2-0 and California topped San Diego 5-3. The Yankee-Met game in Fort Lauderdale was rained out.

Among the highlights Sunday were the hittings of Pete Rose and Tony Perez of the Reds, with three hits each; seven innings of no-hit ball by the Braves Milt Pappas and Cecil Upshaw; a two-run game-winning homer by the Cards' rookie first baseman Joe Hagae off Chris Short; a grand slam by California pitcher Rudy May; a game-winning pinch triple by Duane Josephson of the White Sox; and Richie Allen had a typical day as he made an error to set up three unearned runs but drove in Phil's three runs with two hits including a 475-foot homer.

Palmer looked like he was going to become one of baseball's great pitchers when he beat Koufax in 1966 and became the youngest pitcher in World Series history to toss a shutout at age 20. Those were the days when he was called "Pancake" for his habit of eating pancakes for breakfast before his pitching assignments. He was 15-10 that year.

But since then he's been plagued with arm trouble. He won only three games in 1967 and didn't pitch an inning in the majors last season.

This spring he's worked 28 innings, allowing 22 hits and seven runs and he flashed his old form Sunday as he set down the Pirates on only three hits. Davis always looked like he had all the tools to become a superstar but he never seemed to fulfill his potential. His biggest failing was swinging at bad pitches as he almost never got a walk.

But this spring he seemed to have finally matured, he was waiting for the good pitches to hit and was leading the Dodgers with a .325 average and had stolen five bases. But now he'll be sidelined for three to four weeks and manager Walt Alston said, "The sad part is that Willie will have to start all over again when he's able to work out again."

Davis was disturbed at Raymond's pitch. "There was just no excuse for that pitch," he claimed.

Alston says he'll use either Russell or Wes Parker in center.

Yarborough's Win Big Boost for Ford

HAMPTON, Ga. (UPI)—Ford

Motor Co. was the big winner Sunday when Cale Yarborough led David Pearson across the finish line for his third consecutive Atlanta 500 victory. But stock car racing, at its zenith, may have been the big loser.

Yarborough's Mercury and Pearson's Ford, both equipped with Ford's spanking new 429 "boss" or "semi-hemi" engines, were by far the best on the track. "It could outrun anybody in the race," a grinning Yarborough said. "I think we proved that." Yarborough led all but 37 miles.

Before the race, there was no doubt the new engine was fast. Advance publicity attested to that. But the car had never been run any distance at high speeds.

"Straight out of the box, it couldn't have been better," Yarborough continued. "It's one of the greatest things since axle grease."

Pearson was eight seconds behind Yarborough at the end of the grueling race before an estimated 83,000 spectators, most in track history. Yarborough's winning average speed, worth $21,005, was 132.759, about two miles per hour slower than the record set by Fred Lorenzen, the only other three time winner here.

The rest of the cars were at least two laps further back.

Another Ford, driven by Pete Hamilton, finished fifth. For a time it appeared cars with Ford's new engine might come in 1, 2, 4 and 5, until, with less than 50 miles remaining, Richard Petty and Lee Roy Yarborough wrecked in separate minor accidents, pushing their finishing spots to ninth and 11th, respectively.

Dodge, expected to duel with Ford, took third and fourth spots with Paul Goldsmith and Bobby Allison driving.

But it was clearly no contest from the outset, with Yarborough first all but 25 laps and Pearson second or first most of the way.

If Ford is this good, Dodge—chief competition among the factory entries—may be in serious trouble. And Chrysler Corp., not anxious to be defeated by the new Ford engine each time out, may be tempted to pull out of bigtime stock car racing.

Our car the movie star.

Incredible as it sounds, you are looking at the romantic lead of a big new Hollywood picture.

Please, no autographs.

The picture is Walt Disney Studio's "The Love Bug." And our VW appears in all its real life splendor as Herbie, the main character.

Why would a big film studio want to make a movie star out of the bug?

Why not?

Signing one up for a lifetime costs only $1799* That's less than they have to pay other movie stars in a single day.

Once signed up, the bug won't suddenly start making crazy demands. (A gallon of gas for every 27 miles or so is all.)

No studio could ask for a less temperamental star. (It'll work any time, anywhere.)

Or one with fewer bad habits. (It doesn't even drink water.)

Or one that ages so gracefully.

And of course, there isn't a performer around that's better known to the public.

Who else makes three million personal appearances on the road every day?

Our car can be seen in Walt Disney's Production of "The Love Bug."

Cold, Clear Day Awaits Trout Fishermen

By MORT LAFFIN KINGSTON

As if anyone had to be told, tomorrow is the opening of the trout season, (it's also April Fool's Day) and the weather forecast is 'clear and cold' anglers all over New York State will be heading for their favorite spots. "The 'bows are on the run, and opening day should be good," said conservation department officials. Water conditions in the Region Eight areas, particularly Ulster County, will be high, but clear.

Fishermen from all over the world will be in New York State tomorrow, competing with local anglers for the prized rainbow, as well as the brook, brown and lake varieties. "Bows" are the most popular because of their large size. For years, the Catskill area has offered the best trout fishing in the world and fishermen will flock to this part of New York. Some of the more historic trout streams are the Willowemoc, Beaverkill and the Delaware, also the Schoharie, Rondout, Neversink and Esopus, that trout must be taken through natural openings, not man-made holes in the ice. Creel limits, while different for most areas of the state, remain ten per day in the Ulster area, three per day at the Ashokan Reservoir. Anglers should take care, especially traveling into unfamiliar territories, to refer to the Hunting-Trapping-Fishing Guide for 1968-69 for information on particular waters. Anyone taking tagged fish should report their catch to the Conservation Department. Details as to location, species, size and weight should be forwarded to officials. This information is valuable in determining growth rate and other factors bearing on future stocking plans. Stocking of streams and other fishing areas is expected to proceed on schedule, after April 20, with some of the lower streams in the Ulster area being stocked before that date. The great "Rainbow" has again made its appearance in Esopus Creek and this will attract a lot of fishermen. This area is in the best condition that it has ever been and will remain that way if the "Portal" isn't opened too much.

Pepacton and Gilboa are fishable and the upper and lower basins of the Ashoken will be ready for our local fishermen. Chimney Hole is also in good shape. The Sawkill at Woodstock is a little high, but clear. Ice patches were in evidence this morning. Muddy Brook, Panther Mountain Stream, Upper Woodland Valley, Big Indian and Margaretville should produce good results. As well as Windham, East Windham, Halcott and Halcott Center. Other parts of the Region Eight area that appear in good shape for opening day are: Amawalk River, Titicus Reservoir, West Branch Reservoir, Sylvan Lake, Walden Lake, Greenwood Lake, White Lake and Lake Huntington. So, considering the weather out-look and conditions of the streams, it appears from here that it is going to be a great opening day for fishing. Once again, Good Luck Fellows.

Smith First Day Leader in Shoot

SAUGERTIES

Eugene Smith of Wawarsing Sportsmen's Association led all the scoring with a .890 total in the Ulster County Circuit Shoot, Sunday at the Saugerties Fish and Game Club. It was the first circuit shoot of the season. Walker Valley Sportsmen's Association was the team trophy winner in this new event, hitting 110 out of a possible 125. Joe Hacay and Tom Grossi had 23 out of 25. Ed Hacay hit 22 and Stan Gomes and Mike Gonzalez scored 21 each.

LOOKS ALIKE: Chicago Cubs' Manager Leo Durocher (L) and California Angels' coach Don Phillips compare profiles before exhibition game in Palm Springs, Calif. No, they're not related.

Saugerties, the host club, finished second, with Wawarsing third and Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club third. Saugerties hit 104, Wawarsing 101 and Lake Katrine 83. Smith hit 25 in a row at one point as he gained the first victory of the season. Other high point men were: Mike Gonzalez, Walker Valley-880; Ed Hacay, Walker Valley-880; Roy Longendyke, Saugerties-870; Frank Mauro, Glasco Gun Club-860. ## Old Dutch Sets Record at 142

The Old Dutch All Stars set a new church record by defeating Egan All Stars 142-46 at the Sophie Finn school gym. Gary Ennis set a new individual scoring record as he pumped in 64 points on 30 field goals and 4 free throws. Walt Houghtaling added 46 points as the two accounted for 110 of the total. The victory was the seventeenth against ten defeats this season. Tony Mazzucca led the losers with 28 points.

College Head Defends School Discipline; Promises Open Mind to Student Demands

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — The president of St. Bonaventure University, while strongly defending the school's disciplinary action against six students accused of drug violations, says he will study protesters' demands for reforms.

The Very Rev. Reginald Red-on told a mass meeting Sunday night of virtually all of the school's 1,700 on-campus students that the decision to expel one student and suggest that five others resign was not a rash one.

"For the past several months, we have searched out the reasons for and the evidence of thievery, vandalism and a drug problem on the campus," he told the orderly crowd.

"We have been careful in our investigation because we did not want to act without evidence. Now we have evidence."

The meeting, in the Roman Catholic school's University Center, followed picketing of campus buildings Saturday night and early Sunday by about 50 students who claimed the six students had been deprived of their rights because they had not been given a chance to defend themselves.

Father Reginald said the five, who reportedly are accused of trafficking in drugs in campus dormitories, would be given a chance to state their cases at a hearing Tuesday before the advisory board of the vice president for student affairs, which will decide their futures at St. Bonaventure.

The expelled student allegedly was caught using marijuana in his residence hall room. No civil action has been taken against the six.

Father Reginald said he would study a list of demands drawn up and submitted by the Student Senate.

Among the demands are that a panel composed equally of students, faculty members and administrators be formed to study the drug question before any punishments are imposed and that the university "immediately... acknowledge and accept a student bill of rights and responsibilities."

He said the university would "take any action necessary to prevent disorder or disruption of normal campus activity."

He received a standing ovation at the outset of his speech.

Constables Hear Talk From FBI

KINGSTON

Special Agent Arthur Davidson of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, last week conducted an FBI school for members of the Ulster County Constables Association at the County Office Building, during which a film on stolen automobiles and kidnapping was shown.

Sergeant Joseph Feraca, founder of the association, which has been praised by FBI officials and other police agencies for its activity in police programs, said 47 members were in attendance at the meeting.

Davidson spoke on procedures that should be followed by authorities in investigations of bank robberies, major train mishaps and other disasters that might occur in the area covered by association members.

The speaker emphasized the importance of educating small children against being lured away by motorists or other persons with a piece of candy or other inducements that might lead to trouble.

Davidson invited the constables to visit the FBI schools in New York and at the Marine Base in Virginia, and he complimented the association for the progress it has made in police work since its beginning.

Other FBI schools and meetings with police officials are being planned, Feraca said.

WOODSTOCK

Fire Auxiliary Plans Events

WOODSTOCK — The Easter theme greeted members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Woodstock Fire Company 3 at their meeting at the firehouse in Lake Hill recently.

Girl Scout Troop 139, sponsored prepared and served the refreshments and made the decorations — all a part of the badge training in the scout program. The troop also presented the opening flag ceremony. An auxiliary spokesman stated that 100 per cent of the troop was in attendance along with the two leaders, Mrs. George Denise and Mrs. James Sass.

Announcement was made of another in the series of family covered dish suppers at the firehouse, scheduled for May 17 at 6:30 p.m. The suppers, sponsored by the Auxiliary are for all active members of both the auxiliary and the fire company and their families.

Members of the Auxiliary will be the guests of the Zena fire ladies on April 7 at the Zena firehouse to view a special motion picture concerning child care.

Further plans for the annual rummage sale to be held on Saturday, July 5, at the firehouse in Lake Hill, indicated the addition of a plant booth to the 1969 event. Other booths, besides rummage, will include baked goods, jewelry, new items including handwork and refreshments.

The next meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary will be held at the firehouse in Lake Hill on Tuesday, April 29, at 8 p.m. Any woman residing in the company territory is invited to attend and affiliate herself with the organization, dedicated to the promotion of the fire company.

Easter Egg Hunt April 6

WOODSTOCK — The 24th annual Easter Egg Hunt in Woodstock will take place Sunday, April 6 at 12:30 p.m. on the grounds of Woodstock Elementary School.

It is being presented by the Woodstock Colonial Pharmacy for all children pre-school through grade six residing in the Woodstock-West Hurley School Districts.

Hear Sheriff "Child Molesting" will be the subject of a movie and an accompanying talk by Sheriff William B. Martin before the Ladies Auxiliary of the Woodstock Fire Company 4, Monday, April 7 at 8:30 p.m. at the Zena Firehouse.

All area parents are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

AWAIT DECISION On Phones in North Dutchess

RHINEBECK — A decision has not been reached in regard to the Red Hook Telephone Company's cooperation with the proposed new New York Telephone company's Metro plan, according to Rhinebeck assistant manager Peter Troy.

A public hearing was conducted by the Public Service Commission on the proposed new organization Wednesday, with no definite result.

Rhinebeck and Staatsburg exchanges of the Red Hook Telephone Company were released by the PSC as part of the New York Telephone Company's projected area in a move to expand the distance for a local call while increasing the base service rate.

The Red Hook Telephone Company would have to approve of having its exchanges take part in the changes, if the plan is approved by the PSC.

As of now, the attitude expressed by Mr. Troy is "wait and see what develops."

"This would not affect us for at least a year after an approval at any rate," he added.

Say Sages Goodbye, California,

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Against all scientific evidence prophets of doom say April is the month when a super earthquake will topple half of California into the Pacific.

Scientists say this talk is ridiculous and that while the danger of a major earthquake exists, no one can say when it will happen.

Nonetheless, nerves are getting jumpier day by day.

Here are some symptoms indicating the spread of California's newest attack of earthquake jitters:

—Los Angeles Civil Defense Coordinator William Frank says he has received more than 1,200 phone calls and 500 letters since early March requesting pamphlets on what to do in case of an earthquake.

—A spokesman for Los Angeles city schools says children have become so disturbed by widespread rumors that many teachers have taken time out from studies to review disaster procedures for their classes.

—Eleven members of the Fellowship of the Ancient Mind, a psychic cult that claims to be 6,000 years old, showed up at City Hall March 11 in flowing robes and clerical collars seeking a salvage permit that would allow them to help restore the city after an earthquake they said they expected soon.

The pilot of a single-engine Cessna had radioed the Boston air traffic control center about 6:15 p.m. EST, saying he was running out of fuel, the visibility was poor and he was "pretty shook up."

The controllers checked their radar, spotted the Mohawk flight and asked Sundell and co-pilot Bill Herbener to extend the "courtesy of the skies," a Mohawk spokesman said, and bring the Cessna down.

The spokesman said the Cessna pilot was E. A. Billette, from Endicott, N.Y., who had an unidentified passenger aboard.

The propjet pilots left their flight path and located the smaller plane in about 20 minutes.

—A calypso tune called "Day after Day" which forecast imminent disaster has jumped in three weeks from 20th to 7th place on radio station KHJ's compilation of retail record sales.

—Publishers report a bonanza in magazine articles and books dealing with fictional forecasts of a cataclysm. One of them, "The Last Days of the Late Great State of California," has become a best-seller in Los Angeles bookstores.

The book picks December as the month of catastrophe, but for some reason April is the popular choice of rumors.

Airliner Takes a Detour To Help Troubled Plane

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — Pilot Dave Sundell of a Mohawk Airlines flight from Utica, N.Y., to Newark, N.J., told his 30 passengers Sunday evening they were making an unscheduled change in course—not to Cuba, as some may have feared, but to rescue another plane.

The pilot of a single-engine Cessna had radioed the Boston air traffic control center about 6:15 p.m. EST, saying he was running out of fuel, the visibility was poor and he was "pretty shook up."

The controllers checked their radar, spotted the Mohawk flight and asked Sundell and co-pilot Bill Herbener to extend the "courtesy of the skies," a Mohawk spokesman said, and bring the Cessna down.

Dear Abby

Virtue Greatest Gift?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "WAITING" — the 41-year-old virgin — to keep waiting. A woman's virginity is still the greatest gift she can offer a man in marriage. Even tho a man makes excuses for himself, he still prefers a virgin for a wife. Please don't conclude from my signature that I know nothing about life. I was in the business world for over 30 years before I became a priest.

Respectfully
SAN DIEGO PRIEST

DEAR ABBY: To the 41-year-old virgin who is holding out for marriage. Forget it. On her e p i t a p h they'll inscribe: "Package returned unopened."

HANDSOME

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING": Lady, you are to be commended. Don't let a clod give him. If he says, if you don't give him what he wants, he will go elsewhere — let him. He will be doing you a big favor.

R. B., OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR ABBY: Why all the emphasis on virginity? A man who insists that he be the "one and only" probably does so because he doesn't want the woman he married to be able to make comparisons and find him lacking. Me? I don't have that problem.

A MAN NAMED "MANN"

DEAR ABBY: I am a U.S. serviceman with 18 years' service and three overseas tours of duty, and all my life I've practiced a code of morality some call "Victorian." I've taken tremendous pride in it, and I freely admit, it hasn't always been easy. I married a wonderful girl who held the same moral principles as I, and I cannot begin to express the closeness, trust and warmth of feeling it has brought to our lives. We've been married 16 years and have six fine children, and we're still "in love."

OLD SARGE
Vanderberg AFB Calif.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "WAITING," who claims she's been on her own since 17, lived abroad, is romantic, sensitive, and not ugly. She has got to be kidding! I'm all for purity, but at age 41, what kind of a "prize" does she think she's going to give a man? No man, for example, is going to ask a Chinese girl, whose feet have been bound since infancy, to go on a hike with him. She'd be lucky to be able to walk around the block. And marriage is a long hike.

COMPASSIONATE IN L. A.

DEAR ABBY: My analysis of "WAITING": Immature, selfish, masochistic, inhibited, guilt-ridden, and a cold fish. She repeatedly lures her prey and then rejects it, laying claim to "virtue" — but punishing herself more than the man she has rejected.

D. W. H., M. D.

DEAR ABBY: For "WAITING": Maybe there is a Santa Claus, but a body is not a gift — unless, of course, you are Dr. Frankenstein.

ADOLPH G., L. A.

DEAR ABBY: Please forward to "WAITING": My advice to you is to go out in the country, buy a little farm, and start raising chickens. One rooster and a hen will do. They'll feed themselves and keep your eyes open. You'll notice that the hens always run away from the rooster, but they never run so far or so fast that they avoid getting caught. Try it. You'll be glad you did. With love.

AN OLD ROOSTER

DEAR ABBY: This is for "WAITING": I was all for clinging to your virginity — until I read your age. Come on now, at 41, what are you waiting for? There is a happy middle ground between waiting and swinging, and it's called "discretion."

DISCREET IN N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: If at age 25, an attractive, normal, fun-loving woman surrenders her virtue without marriage, I wouldn't think less of her. It's nice to marry a virgin, but I think it's more important how a woman conducts herself AFTER marriage than before. I married a virgin who didn't confine herself to me afterwards. That is why I am "SINGLE AGAIN" IN TULSA of nature, morals, or divine sanction must a woman love only one man while we men may love as many women as our hearts desire, and without reproof of anyone's conscience — including our own?

DEAR ABBY: By what law

If, indeed, the most precious gift a woman may bring to a man in marriage is her body, untouched, my first concern would be for the man. For surely there are better recommendations for marriage than never having loved.

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 1, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expand contacts. Accent on public relations. Excellent for partnerships, marriage. Tie up loose ends. Have expert check contractual details. You can save money in this manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Work conditions improve—so do employment opportunities. Be perceptive, adventurous. Your efforts receive greater degree of appreciation. You gain needed co-operation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your love nature is activated. Children could play paramount role. Stress harmony at home. Don't risk security for "thrill." Right move depends upon your degree of maturity.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Review property values. What you own could be worth more than you imagine. One who talks behind your back receives reprimand. Build on solid base. Go after facts, discard rumors.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Short journey is favored. Develop ideas. Solidify plans. Assume responsibility. Reward, promotion is indicated. Creative endeavor meets with success. Proceed with confidence.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Finish rather than initiate project. Hold reins tight on budget. Financial indications are favorable. But don't try too much too soon. Message crystal-clear by tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Cycle high; your influence spreads. You get what you need. Message bearing good news due to arrive by early evening. Take initiative. Be independent in thought, action.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Take time to reflect; don't feel you must make immediate decision. Much of what you need is taken care of behind the scenes. Special honor could be meted out by club, organization.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Reach beyond apparent limitations. Friends, hopes and wishes are emphasized. Sense of timing is sharpened. You can be at right place at right time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Prestige, standing in community is on the rise. Those in authority favor your ideas. Push ahead on business, career plans. Don't delegate duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Good lunar aspect today coincides with favorable results from writing, publishing. Your views are received with enthusiasm.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): One close to you could have financial downfall. Be happy, not envious. Accent on what was hidden. You get additional facts. They prove beneficial. Know this and be confident.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY social life improves; so do opportunities for self-expression. You are inventive, original. But you must learn to control tendency to be domineering.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Lunar position favorable for fishing.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "You have told me that by 1930 expert contract bidding had begun to take shape. How far along had you come?"

Oswald: "We worked on finding 4-4 fits. The oldtimers despised four-card suits and it took us youngsters to get around to bidding them. One weakness of everyone's, though, was their unwillingness to compete on mere distribution."

Jim: "Playing with Hal Sims, Willard Karn and Lee Langdon,

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

ALL WRONG: (Q.) I'm having dates with a 23-year-old man. He's married. When I'm with him I feel needed. I'm 14. I've seen him every Saturday for three weeks in a row. I've thought what his wife would think if she knew about us, and I've tried not to see him. But I guess I don't try hard enough. I just love to be with him. He is very nice and does not try to do anything he shouldn't.

I don't think I'm doing anything seriously wrong. But my mother is getting suspicious of me. I told her I was downtown with my girl friend, and my girl friend called while I was with him.

Please mark my question "Something Wrong" in the paper and give me some good advice. Maybe I'll take it. — A Constant Reader in Newark, N. Y.

(A.) You're right. There is something very wrong. When you have to lie to your mother and hide facts from her, you know you are wrong. You've been unfair to this man's wife. He has been unfair to her, and to you, too. No grown man should use a 14-year-old girl the way this man is using you.

Just by going with you he is doing something he shouldn't do. Even if he has never touched you he has done wrong. Leave him at once, before you are hurt beyond healing. Do not see him next Saturday, or any Saturday—ever again.

LOW IN BACK: (Q.) My dress has a low-cut back. I have to wear it to my school's military ball. But my back tan is spotty. I got some blemishes on it last summer. Can you send me the name of a soap that will help clear these up quick? — A Reader in Dallas.

(A.) I'm sending you the name of a good soap for the places on your back. But you'll need more than soap. On the night of the dance blend in one of the new body make-ups. It will give your face, neck, back, and arms a tan, smooth look.

SAGA of SURVIVAL

Today's Word

By ROBERT FYNNE and ERNEST PETERSAK

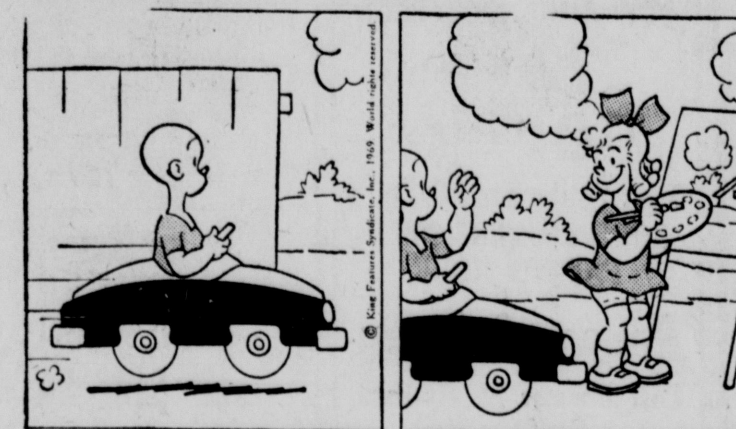

The young man was told that his conversation at the dinner party was sophomoric; on two occasions he embarrassed his host. Both girls agreed that the boy who behaves sophomoric usually can turn a gala evening into a night of boredom. Because of his sophomoric conduct at the city opera, the high school student was told that his presence was unwanted at future performances.

Glamor Hollywood's Byword

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—I was out at Universal Studios early the other evening, and as the combination of dusk and sunset settled over the lot, the old thrill of Hollywood glamor suddenly hit me.

Whatever the big thinkers say, glamor is still the secret weapon of this town, and the ability to maintain the illusion and image of glamor is no mean achievement. But Universal has somehow managed to do it.

Unless you have worked in and around this town for a while, it may be difficult to understand exactly how important glamor is to the sustenance of the dreams of those who hope to succeed here. The people who forge ahead here could do just as well in steel or farming or mining, but they chose Hollywood—and glamor is the reason in their heart of hearts.

No Secret

The toughness and ruthlessness of a town like Hollywood are hardly secrets anymore. And only a fool would go around saying that every bit of film turned out by a studio is to be treasured because of the glamorous surroundings in which it was turned out. But I feel it is impossible not to be a little forgiving toward any studio that can surround its product—film—with that very special Hollywood glamor.

You hear an awful lot about Filmtown being a rather dull place nowadays compared with the past—and there are those who say that Hollywood is dead. And I suppose that is what I was thinking about most of all as I stood at the front gate of Universal, watching all the activity as streams of people drove out, saying goodnight. For Universal has helped put the lie to any notion that Hollywood is dead.

Most Spectacular

On sight alone, Universal challenges any of the great studios—past or present—for as well as a film studio. Now have the tourist check into the hotel before or after his visit to the Universal lot, and literally use a Hollywood studio as his base, centrally located, for guests from seeing the other sights of the Los Angeles area. At night, from the passing freeway, the studio complex is a spectacular jeweled setting, and any tourist coming home to such a place for a night's rest is bound to be flattered by Hollywood glamor.

In recent years, the out-of-town press has come to know that Universal's lavish parties why.

Three From Dutchess Arrested By New Paltz Village Police

NEW PALTZ — Two Poughkeepsie youths and a Hyde Park man were arrested Saturday afternoon by village police in connection with possession of stolen property and other charges as the result of an investigation of complaints. Charged with possession of stolen property allegedly taken from local business establishments were Charles Edward McGill and William Henry Donegan, both 18, of Poughkeepsie, and Donald C. Millard, 22, of Hyde Park. Donegan and McGill also were charged with petit larceny and Donegan was cited for criminal possession of dangerous drugs—heroin, police said. Millard was summoned for driving an unregistered motor vehicle. Police Chief Dominick Pape arrested McGill, and the other two defendants were subsequently picked up by Patrolman Anthony J. Oneto and William Luedtke. Involved in the complaints was a quarter inch power drill reportedly taken from Barker's Department Store, several children's shirts reported stolen from Carroll's Department Store and two transistor radios taken from Western Auto Parts store, according to Officer Luedtke. The defendants are scheduled for hearing later before Town Justice Rexford Schneider.

Dice Game Crashed

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — State and local police crashed a dice game here Sunday night, arresting 12 men and confiscating gambling apparatus and money from the players. Ten of the 12 pleaded guilty to charges of loitering before City Judge Harold Lieberman and were fined $50 each. Two other defendants, Nicholas Lippera, 54, and Charles Porreca, 52, both of Hudson and listed by police as "self-employed," were charged with possession of gambling equipment and promoting gambling. They were released on $250 bail each for a court appearance at a later date. Police said the dice game was in a garage beneath a vacant apartment building. Lippera's address was listed as 86 Union Turnpike. Porreca lives at 220 Warren St.

Dutchess Man Killed in Crash

By WALTER S. CLARK
MILLBROOK — A 70-year-old Dutchess County man died late Sunday at the Sharon, Conn., Hospital, about four hours after his car was involved in a two-car collision on Route 82 at the intersection of 44 near here. Millbrook State Police said the cause of death had not been determined, and it was not determined whether injuries sustained in the mishap caused death. Authorities in other areas including Ulster County reported several traffic accidents, some involving persons injured and arrests. Troopers said cars driven by Max von Salis, of Pine Plains, and Ronald Puckett, 26, of Schodack Landing, were involved in the collision here at 1:40 p.m. yesterday. Von Salis was taken to the Sharon Hospital for treatment of facial lacerations. He complained of severe back pains. The hospital reported the man died at 5:40 p.m. Injured in the mishap were Susan von Salis, 70, who sustained lacerations of the nose; Puckett, who received a severe laceration of the face and head, and passengers in his car, James Ryan, 25, and Harold Kreeber, 44, both of Kinderhook, and Calvin Fiske, 23, of Niverville. The three said they would see their own physician for treatment of lacerations and bruises. Three persons were injured Sunday afternoon when the car in which they were riding went out of control on the State Thruway north of the Kingston interchange and struck a farm tractor that was unattended in a field. Troop T troopers said Sylvia Quailer of 3352 18th Street, Jackson Heights, was northbound when an unidentified vehicle forced her off the superhighway onto the field of the Boice farm. The woman and passengers, Robert and Allison Quailer sustained minor lacerations and bruises. They told troopers they would see their own physician. Augustus Ellsworth, 31, of 153 Hunter Street, was injured early Sunday when his car went out of control and hit guard rails at the Route 9W divider near the entrance to Caldor's Department Store. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance and treated for lacerations of the mouth and head. Kingston State Police later booked Ellsworth for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. The case is pending before Ulster Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly.
